Today

Good Soup, Good Service.
Wall St. in Wonderland

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright 1928)

CHEFS of many hotels competed in New York to see which could make the best soup. Six wise men, including Clarence H. Mackay's French chef, Combes, allotted first prize to E. Alliot.

That competition means more to human welfare than the average man realizes, more, for instance, than any Olympic competition.

SOUPS contain vitamines and other valuable nourishment and stimulate the flow of digestive fluids. To manufacture good soup and sell a great deal of it is to render public service.

USUAL Wall Street doings yesterday, with a touch of heart failure in the last hour. "The boys," their exchange seats worth $300,000, and going up, and stocks going Heaven knows where, with more orders than they can fill, feel like "Alice in Wonderland."

Occasionally they pinch themselves to make sure they are awake. Then stocks waver a minute.

Don't gamble, and, above all, don't sell short.

"BIG STEEL," producing more iron and steel than any European nation, goes climbing up. It went above 170 yesterday.

SOME time before he died, the late Judge Elbert Gary said to this writer, "Tell our friend, Nathan Straus, to buy plenty of steel stock and keep it for his grandchildren." Steel was selling then at about $80. With the 40 per cent stock dividend, a thousand shares of Steel that could then be bought for $80,000 would have been worth yesterday $238,000.

Get something good in the United States, real estate or securities. Take care of it, and it will take care of you.

COL. DEEDS, of Dayton, important supporter of aviation, in words and in deeds, is made a director of the National City Bank.

This means that Charles E. Mitchell's gigantic institution, biggest financial unit in the world, takes a serious interest in aviation—a good thing for aviation and the country.

HENRY FORD, still branching out, purchases a site on the Thames in England, a mile deep, and establishes enormous showrooms in the heart of London.

Mr. Ford makes a separate company of his Canadian business in which stock can be bought, the present price being $610. It was about half of that a year or so ago.

Mr. Ford may start a separate British company for the British Ford business. Use your judgment about buying some stock in that concern, if you can get any.

BRITISH labor rejoices. On construction work, alone, Ford's new plant will employ thousands of men for the next three years, and when finished, provide jobs for 10,000. And they will get wages that Britain hasn't known thus far.

FORD expects to turn out in the beginning 200,000 cars a year in his British plant, about double the total number of automobiles produced in England now.

That will help the British to understand why the United States is prosperous.

SOMEBODY asked: "What would Europe do if we were in difficulties and needed help?"

Will Rogers replies: "Europe would hold a celebration."

OF many European countries, including all the big countries, that would be literally true.

The deep sorrow that a dragoman on the Nile feels when a rival boat runs on the mud would be duplicated in Europe's capitals if this country "ran on the mud." But, fortunately, it won't do that.

There is nothing in that to make us bitter, but there is everything to make us cautious and keep us PREPARED.

WALTER OLSON, 21-year-old farmer in Illinois, wins the national corn husking championship, averaging 40 to 44 ears a minute, picking up 26.62 bushels in 80 minutes.

THERE are few Olsons, and farmers should investigate a machine in which this writer, also a farmer, has recently invested.

It grinds cornstalks, husks, stalks, corn and all to a fine powder, and saves husking. You stack the stalks near the barn, grind them as needed. No part of the stalk wasted. Ask your dealer, get the machine on trial if you can.

SOME European statesmen foresee "danger of a race in armaments between the United States and European countries."

So far as this country is concerned there need be no race. In any case, there will be no DANGER.

WE NEED enough airplanes, submarines and fast cruisers, first to defend the United States; second, to punish, in exemplary fashion, anybody foolish enough to attack the United States.

To have what we need, it is only necessary to invest in armaments one of the billions that we send each year in loans to Europe.

VESTRIS SURVIVORS SAFE, TELL LURID TALES

EXPOSED 22 HOURS

Mrs. Clara Ball, stewardess on the SS. Vestris, clung to flotsam with Paul A. Dana for 22 hours after the ship sank. Today she is in New York.

WRECK HERO

PULLING VICTIMS FROM WATER

The SS. Berlin, German liner, was one of the rescue ships on the scene. Here, members of the Berlin's crew reach out to pull from the water the victim shown swimming towards one of the life-preservers they have thrown overboard where the Vestris sank.

ACCUSES SAILORS

Mrs. Earl Devore says she was in a boat carrying only four sailors and they refused aid to others, including her husband.

STATE REP. PICKED OUT IN COURT

Samuel J. Grenet, member of the State Legislature and Republican chairman of the Twenty-seventh Ward, was the "boss" who had to be seen regarding bootlegging privileges, according to testimony today in the trial of 46 defendants accused by the United States government of conspiracy in connection with the alleged North Side liquor ring.

Police Lieut. John Lynch gave orders to proprietors of "moonshine" joints to open or close, Thomas Olliffe collected, at $20 for the customary five-gallon can of moonshine, and John Harkins, identified as the "Joe Green" whose card was circulated among bootleggers, took the orders, witnesses testified. All are defendants in the case.

RACKET DESCRIBED

The system alleged to exist by government counsel was described by Walter Krol, who admitted bootlegging in his lunchroom at 2914 Preble avenue. He said Lieut. Lynch came to him about a year ago and gave him a white card on which the name of "Joe Green" was inscribed, telling him the person named was "all right."

Soon afterwards, Harkins, whom he had known, came to him with a similar card, representing himself as "Joe Green," the witness said. Harkins solicited business and Krol ordered moonshine, which was delivered in five-gallon cans and which he sold at 15 cents a drink, $1 a pint, he testified. He was raided and Lynch told him not to open, advising him to see the "boss," who was Grenet, according to the witness. He visited Grenet at the Fort Pitt brewery and was allowed to reopen, he testified.

Earl J. Pillman, of 3037 Preble avenue; Steve Olienik, of 2921 Preble avenue; Dan Relchuk, of 3028 Preble avenue; Frank Jahovic, of 171 Cass avenue, and Frank Artimiso, of 3038 Preble avenue, all confessed bootleggers, substantiated the story of the liquor operations so far as the solicitation by Harkins and payment to Olliffe was concerned.

SAYS HE WENT TO GRENET

Jahovic said he was also told to see Grenet after his place was closed by a raid and he had been fined $100. Jahovic explained that when he visited Grenet liquor was not mentioned specifically, but that Grenet said he would be glad to do anything to help him. Lynch told him later that he could go ahead. Jahovic testified, and he thereupon resumed his trade in moonshine.

Lynch had told him to close after the raid "until I tell you to open up," the witness said. He purchased his moonshine through Harkins, he said, and paid Burke for it. Harkins did business as "Joe Green," according to the witness.

The "Joe Green" card was introduced as evidence by Prosecuting Counsel Smith after identification by the next witness, Pillman. The witness said he paid Olliffe for the

PROBERS QUIZ LOST LINER'S SURVIVORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—While stories of the Vestris disaster were being recounted today by additional survivors brought in by the French tanker Myriam, federal authorities moved to piece together at an official inquiry the tangled tales that involved charges of neglect, delay, carelessness and "plain murder."

United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, assigned two assistants to gather in the witnesses—as many as possible of the 205 survivors now in New York—and place on record, beginning this afternoon, versions of just what happened between Saturday, when the Vestris sailed, and Monday afternoon, when she sank 250 miles off Hampton Roads with a loss of 114 lives.

BLAME OPEN COAL DOOR

Numerous members of the crew who reached port on the Myriam, said that one of the chief causes of the disaster had been the rush of water through a half-door into the coal bunkers. Some were certain that this door had been found open soon after the liner left New York and that the rush of the sea into the Vestris eventually became so great that efforts to force it shut were without avail.

PROBING ALL CHARGES

This incident, and the stories of shifting cago, weak bulkheads, ineffective launching of poorly equipped lifeboats and procrastination in radioing for help, were to be told again before the federal attorneys.

F. W. Pupe, a passenger on the Vestris, who was rescued by the U. S. Shipper, was the first man quizzed. He declined to comment

FAY, CHARLEROI BOXER, TELLS STORY OF RESCUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(INS.)—Victor in a battle for higher stakes than the squared circle ever held, Harry Fay, Pittsburgh boxer, landed here today with the Vestris passengers rescued by the Myriam.

It was all "just another experience" to Fay, who grinned broadly and waved his hat while photographers' flashlights flared.

"I feel fine now that the experience is over," said Fay as he stepped onto a Brooklyn dock early this morning from the tug which had brought him and the others from the French tanker. "And it was just another experience, or a series of them.

"From the time we were lowered away from the sinking ship until we were picked up three hours later by the tanker, everything is a jumble in my mind.

JUST KNOWS HE WAS SAVED!

"All I know is that I was saved. How, I don't think I will ever know.

"The lifeboat I was in tipped up on end as it was being lowered and spilled me and more than a score of others into the sea.

"As I fell I jumped into another lifeboat, but this one was leaking so badly that it was being abandoned. I jumped to a third boat. I just jumped into three boats, one after another, and was saved. I don't even remember whether I was in the water in between.

"There was wreckage and debris all around us. Boxes and crates, pieces of wood and canvas. In some places the litter was so thick on the water that the lifeboats could hardly get through."

Fay was on his way to South America to arrange for a bout with Luis Firpo, the Bull of the Pampas. He said his fight plans are now a little up in the air. He will return to Pittsburgh in a few days, he said.

MUST SEE JIMMY LONG

The boxer was met by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cruils, Mrs. Mary

One of Duncan Girls Taken to Hospital

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Rosetta Duncan was taken to a hospital today after a sudden illness which followed the conclusion of a performance of "Topsy and Eva" at the Gaiety Theater last night. The strain of responsibility for the show which she and her sister, Vivian Duncan, are producing, is said to have brought her near to collapse.

Cabbies Arrested For Street Cruising

A score of taxicab drivers will be arraigned today in Traffic Court, accused of cruising about the streets near hotels and in front of theaters, seeking passengers. They were arrested by members of the traffic division who were detailed to the downtown district last night to break up the practice. The cabbies are charged with violating a city ordinance.

New Cruiser Named For Coolidge's City

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Secretary Wilbur has named the seventh of the eight 10,000-ton cruisers under construction, Northampton, after the Massachusetts home town of President Coolidge. The cruiser is being built by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Quincy, Mass., and is to be completed June 12, 1930.

Metro Plan Approved

With only 855 out of 8,571 precincts unreported, the Pittsburgh metropolitan district amendment has a lead of more than 23,800 votes.

The approval of this amendment was announced yesterday afternoon by the Sun-Telegraph after sufficient returns had been collected and tabulated to show that the missing districts would not affect the final result. The returns from 7,716 precincts resulted as follows:

For, 399,929.
Against, 376,051.

The missing districts include 121 in Pittsburgh, 248 in other parts of the county and 486 in outside counties.

Only six counties voted favorably upon the metropolitan district amendment. These were Allegheny, Bucks, Delaware, Luzerne, McKean and Philadelphia. The result in Beaver, Berks, Clearfield and Northampton counties still is in doubt.

Lights, Shadows On Probe

It became evident at the second day of the North Side rum trial that the sense of smell will play an important role. Prohibition agents, in testifying of raids in which moonshine whisky was seized, were invariably asked by defense counsle how the "stuff" was recognized as "moonie." The agents explained that by its odor they knew it.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, at adjournment of the morning session of court today, requested Judge R. M. Gibson to remit the fine of $100 imposed on Police Lieut. James J. Callahan, imposed in lieu of forfeiture of his $5,000 bond. Callahan, one of the defendants, was 21 minutes late in appearing in court yesterday.

The court declared his bond forfeited, but later agreed to rescind this action when the fine was paid.

Government counsel Smith and Chaerles B. Prichard, one of the defense array, had a tilt during the examination of one witness. Smith asked the witness how recently he had done business in the sale of moonshine and the reply was that his most recent sales were yesterday. Prichard objected, saying in aloud aside to Smith:

"If we had this man raided yesterday we would be accused of interfering with a witness."

Judge R. M. Gibson rebuked both counsel, saying there had been too much of such aside remarks, and ordering that it be discontinued.

When Steve Olienik had testified that he purchased moonshine from a man whose name he did not know, Smith asked him to step down from the witness stand and look for the individual. Olienik went first to the

MAD RUSH TO BUY STOCKS CONTINUES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(INS.)—The mad rush of American speculators for quick and easy profits on the stock exchange continued today with only slight abatement. Up to noon 1,760,000 shares had been traded in against 1,917,000 in the same period yesterday. The ticker, unable to keep pace with the furious buying and selling, was 34 minutes behind the market at noon and lagged further behind as trading continued.

Money was plentiful and the bulls early turned their attention to the tobacco and tire stocks. The lure of possible mergers and big profits in the mail orders and chain store stocks brought a burst of buying orders for National Bellas Hess, which rose more than 15 points in two days. This stock took the leadership of the mail and chain store group.

OIL LEAPS

Under the furious rush of business since the election some of the brokers have become physically exhausted. Their inability to keep up with the excited flood of orders from all sections of the country was said to be one of the reasons for the slowing down of business today.

One old standby—Standard Oil of New Jersey—was prominent in trad-

HE'D PLAY GRIND ORGAN TO HELP WELFARE FUND

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Variety Club of Pittsburgh received today offers of co-operation in the plan for the midnight show to be given at the Stanley Theater Friday night, November 23, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund.

The Pittsburgh Musical Society, Local No. 60, American Federation of Musicians; Local No. 171, of the Moving Picture Machine Operators, and Local No. 3, Stage Employes, American Federation of Labor, all sent word that they would contribute their services, gratis.

Dick Leibert, organist at the Penn Theater, said: "Count on me for any help I can give the Welfare Fund or the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. I'll play any kind of organ—even a grind organ, if you supply the monkey—if it will help Pittsburgh's Community Chest."

Paul Mall, blackface comedian, coming to the Penn next week, wired: "I will be with you, black face or otherwise, for your Welfare Fund party. Any help I can give

Graft, Rum Rings Probed By Three Agencies of Law

Developments today in the racket investigation:

FEDERAL COURT—State Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet was identified by a speakeasy proprietor as the one who gave him the "privilege" to sell moonshine.

Anthony Puniak, Woods Run bootlegger, whose charge that he was being "shaken down" brought conviction of four constables and Justice of the Peace C. J. Ranshaw in Criminal Court, failed to identify Grenet as the man who gave him a similar "privilege."

FEDERAL GRAND JURY—Bobbie White, accused in the sale of the stolen confessions of two of the constables, was hailed before the jury. He had boasted previously that he "told nothing" when questioned by county prosecutor.

COUNTY GRAND JURY—District Attorney Gardner was seeking Jakie Klein for denial or affirmation of the charge attributed to Alderman John J. Verona that Klein had paid $7,500 weekly for "protection" to run a Third avenue gambling house.

Sorenson tells the story of the sinking and calls it "criminal."

'JAKIE' KLEIN WANTED IN QUIZ

George Craft, 3352 McNeil place, appraiser in the inheritance tax department of the auditor general's office, was ordered detained by District Attorney S. H. Gardner, following Craft's appearance before the grand jury investigating graft today.

District Attorney Gardner accompanied Craft to the door of the grand jury room and making no effort to conceal his feelings, ordered Chief County Detective George W. Murren to hold Craft until later.

What line of interrogation Craft was subjected to in the grand jury room was not revealed. The action of the district attorney indicated that he was not satisfied with Craft's testimony.

J. A. Fuchs, Meyran avenue, previously had given testimony relative to lottery activities, it is said. Gardner expressed himself as satisfied with the progress made. Ed Kelly, of the North Side, also was questioned presumably on lottery operations. Several North Side saloon keepers also testified.

"Jakey" Klein, who Alderman John Verona named as the contributor of $7,500 weekly to the police graft maw, was being sought today by county detectives with a summons. He is reported to be in New York.

Klein, according to Verona's charges which brought about the probe, paid $7,500 a week to city officials for permission to operate gambling houses. Klein was mentioned prominently in the case of William L. King, Citizens' League crusader, now a fugitive from justice. It was Klein who was reported to have paid King $22,500 to leave town.

Informations will be drawn up today against three men who were witnesses before the jury yesterday, charging them with conspiracy to conduct a lottery, it was announced at the district attorney's office. They are Arthur F. Reed, Jr., son of Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree borough; Clarence Reed, a brother, and C. M. Wale, a nephew of the justice. The three spent last night in jail after telling the grand jury what they know of lottery tickets printed in a plant in Greentree borough. The three will be questioned further today in effort to connect the operation of the lottery with officials of the police department.

Beardsley and other friends, and went to the Crull home, where he said the first thing he would look for would be some substitutes for the blue denim overalls and heavy sweater gathered for him from the Myriam's sea chests. One of the first things Fay will do, he said, and what he must do before he makes further plans, is to see Jimmie Long, sports writer at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"I don't know what my plans will be," said Fay. "I'll be going back to Pittsburgh within a few days, and I'll see Mr. Long."

Fay exhibited a wrist watch which was still running and bore the correct time.

"Here's a watch I wouldn't take $1,000 for.

"It was on my wrist all the time and is still going. It's all I have, too. We weren't able to save anything.

"I came up onto one of the lower decks with my shoes untied after I heard people shouting. That was some time before noon Monday morning. I was dressed and had a cap in my hand, but no overcoat.

KNEW THERE WAS DANGER

"Officers told me there was no danger at all and to go to the top deck. When I got up there I saw the terrible list the ship had and I knew there was danger.

"I was in the second of the two boats picked up by the Myriam. We were saved about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. The others had been rescued about 2:30. We were a good deal more fortunate than those in some of the other boats.

Fay said he saw no incidents, either of heroism or cowardice on the part of either passengers or crew. He was surprised when told of the charges of negligence made by rescued passengers arriving yesterday against officers and seamen of the Vestris.

"We were among the first to get away from the ship after the first three lifeboats had been smashed," said Fay, "and I don't know of anything like that."

ing. The directors met for dividend action and the leaping imagination of speculators was responsible for a burst of buying orders which put the stock to 54½, the highest price in six years.

Radio and Montgomery Ward forged ahead at the opening, only to fall back about $4 below yesterday's close as trading progressed. Sears, Roebuck dropped about $5. City Stores B jumped $9 to a peak price at $214.75, while Chicago Pneumatic Tool, National Supply, Air Reduction and Johns-Manville climbed about $5 to $7 to new high levels.

U. S. Steel was again put forward, crossing its previous high by a fraction, while Bethlehem followed into new high ground for the year.

Penna Industrial Lenders Elect

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—A. V. Hart, of this city, yesterday was elected chairman of the Pennsylvania Industrial Lenders' Association. Other officers chosen at the annual convention were V. D. Moss, Philadelphia, and C. W. Loupe, Pittsburgh, vice chairmen; W. S. Herron, this city, secretary; J. F. Devine, this city, treasurer and C. H. Watts, chairman of the executive committee.

GRENET IS IDENTIFIED

moonshine, which was delivered "now and then," the delivery man seeming to know somehow when to make deliveries.

Jahovic identified Grenet, Lynch, Harkins and Burke in the courtroom, and Krol identified Grenet, Olliffe, Lynch and Harkins. Reichuk, who testified that he bought moonshine from Harkins, as Joe Green, said he could not see Harkins in the courtroom. Olienik was unable to say exactly from whom he had purchased certain consignments of moonshine and could not pick out the seller in the courtroom. He said that he had bought some moonshine from an Abie Berkowitz.

Artimiso also said he had bought some moonshine from a man he knew as "Abie" and from others he could not identify. He said he was raided by Lynch in 1927 and remained closed for 21 days as he was afraid to open. He said he saw Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, who told him, "I do not have anything to do about selling whisky," and visiting Lynch almost daily to obtain permission to reopen. Once Lynch said, "I can't allow you to open until you get an answer," according to the witness. He said on his second visit to Faulkner the Inspector told him to open, but not to sell liquor as "you are being watched too close."

Krol followed on the stand Anthony Puniak, the Preble avenue confessed bootlegger, whose testimony yesterday disappointed government counsel.

Today Puniak admitted having a conversation with Grenet at the Fort Pitt brewery in Sharpsburg over the "privilege" to sell moonshine, but he insisted that the Grenet in court was not the person who represented himself as Grenet at their meeting.

While Puniak was testifying before Judge Gibson, Charles Berger, confessed bootlegger serving 20 months in Atlanta for previous offenses, was arraigned before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and fined $500 on his plea of guilty to conspiracy.

FEDERAL GRAND JURORS INDICT FELLOW MEMBER

James S. Braddock, 73, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., a reputed wealthy retired coal operator, was indicted today by the federal grand jury on which he was serving as a member.

The bill charges him with violating the postal laws by sending through the mail last Monday a postcard of "defamatory and scurrilous" character to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charlotte Hay Beard, of the North Side.

Braddock on October 11 pleaded guilty to a similar offense and was fined $200 by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. The first postcard had been mailed from the postoffice at Mt. Pleasant on April 12.

Braddock's name was drawn from the jury wheel at the November term of Federal court. He reported for duty when the jury convened Monday and served until the case against him was called for investigation. Then he was excused, it was said, from further service.

POISONED, GIRL DIES; 2 HELD

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Twenty minutes after she had been taken to a hospital last night Miss Katherine Enright, 25, died of poisoning. Two young men who took her to the hospital said they were visiting her when they saw her place a bottle to her lips. One of them said he knocked the bottle away but not before she had drank the poison. The two were arrested and gave their names as Leonard Scott and Louis de Salvo.

jury boy and started to peer intently among the jurors.

"Don't look among the jurors," cautioned Smith, with a smile. The incident provoked a laugh in the courtroom, and Judge Gibson was forced to smile broadly.

Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson, who has retired from the bench subject to call, sat with Judge Gibson today during the course of the third day of the trial.

Mixing of defendants and witnesses in the courtroom was banned by Judge Gibson. He ordered that defendants take places in the front rows of benches and witnesses occupy seats in the rear of the room.

One witness said he conducted "what you might call an old-fashioned saloon." He said he dealt in "good stuff" and what some called "bonded goods," and that it was "fair."

The tremendous amount of detail involved in the prosecution of the numerous defendants charged with conspiracy was in evidence when Government Counsel Smith and Joseph A. Richardson, and Joseph A. Frayne, assistant prohibition administrator, moved into the courtroom a rack with voluminous records, placing it alongside their chairs.

Two former government officials who had considerable experience in the prosecution of "liquor" cases were observed in the throng in the corridors. They were the Rev. John T. Davis, of Blairsville, former state prohibition director, and Attorney D. J. Driscoll, of St Marys, Pa., former United States District Attorney. Both declared they were merely in the Federal Building to visit friends and in no manner interested in the big trial.

Concern for business affairs and diversion was made evident by members of the jury yesterday. A bailiff conveyed word to Judge Gibson that most of the jurors wished a radio for entertainment during their confinement. The court, after hearing hearty approval by prosecution and defense counsel, ordered that an outfit be permitted in the hotel quarters of the jury. "As long as you keep off the air," Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith smilingly remarked to Edward G. Coll, one of defense counsel, who campaigned in the county for Gov. Alfred E. Smith and who broadcast recently.

One juror, M. O. Smith, tax collector, of Black Lick, Indiana county, asked Judge Gibson if he might be allowed the use of a typewriter in his room, so that he might transact some advertising business. Judge Gibson granted the request, and Government Counsel Smith stated that he would arrange to send a typewriter to the juror.

Another juror requested that he be allowed to go to his place of business each morning for a short time in advance of the opening of court, and Judge Gibson directed that a bailiff accompany him to comply with the request. It was indicated that the juror is from Allegheny county, and the only member from this county is Edward E. Ludwig, a florist.

The bringing of Charles H. Berger from the Atlanta penitentiary, where he is serving a 20-month sentence for violating the prohibition law, to testify as a government witness provided an opportunity for his wife to see and talk with him. She sat with him in the courtroom throughout the day, when he was not on the witness stand, and they talked frequently in an undertone. Berger was in custody of a United States marshal. After court adjourned for the day and everybody had left the room, Mrs. Berger sat alone for a long time, the only person in the room.

MARY RAY

Pitt students today still seeth over the questionaire they are asked to answer by Prof. C. W. Gleason, psychology department. Most students are puzzled, some amused, but all show eagerness to answer the 100 questions with absolute frankness. Mary Ray and Lillian Kirsch, seniors, were found deeply absorbed. Mary, by the way, jotted down an emphatic "No" to the query "Are you in favor of companionate marriage?" "When I do marry, it will be for good," she explained. Lillian put herself on record as opposed to "petting."

LILLIAN KIRSCH

VIRGINIA GRIFFITHS EMILY MUMPER MARY WEAVER

The questionaire forms the chief topic of discussion at sorority houses. At Delta Delta Delta, Virginia Griffiths, junior; Emily Mumper, sophomore, and Mary Weaver, junior, were found pondering. Miss Griffiths put a "No" to the question "Are you in favor of 'log-rolling methods,' forming a combination of sororities to control campus politics." Miss Mumper does not agree with her fellow-student on this question. Miss Weaver wrote "Yes" to "Do you regard an habitual 'over-eater' who is endangering his health by his intemperance in eating to be immoral, in addition to being a fool?"

BETTY BAKER

The query of the advisability of profanity as a reaction to irritation or disappointment while alone or with people who do not object was answered quickly by Betty Baker, a junior. Although not the type to "flare-up" quickly over a trivilality, she thinks nothing of mild profanity when among acquaintances. "There's no harm in an occasional 'damn'," she explained.

GLANDS! SCIENCE EXPLAINS WHAT MAKES YOU FAT SMALL OR TALL

GLAND AT BASE OF BRAIN

In case you are not familiar with the pituitary body or hypophysis cerebri, as it is more familiarly termed in medical circles, here it is—consisting of anterior and posterior lobes at the base of the brain.

LOBE MAKES WOMAN SMALL

Would you have thought such a tiny little organ could be responsible for such differences in stature? This little lady, a dwarf (note her size as compared with chair) is "suffering" deficiency in the anterior lobe.

SCIENCE TELLS WHAT MAKES HIM TALL

How's your pituitary? An over-active anterios lobe of the sella turcica, or pituitary gland, is responsible for this giant's unusual growth, according to latest scientific opinion.

SHOULD STIR HIS POSTERIOR LOBE

Here's the secret of weight control. This stout fellow's posterior lobe is not as efficient as it might be, according to science, and as a result—well, look at him. Keep your posterior lobe stirred up is good advice.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1928

GLANDS IN BRAIN REGULATE STATURE—GIANT OR PIGMY

Scientifically speaking if your anterior or posterior lobes of the pituitary gland are not functioning properly, you may be suffering from acromegaly, an affliction of the sella turcica and as a result you may be unusually tall, runty, fat or skinny.

This, perhaps, may not be a true scientific or medical explanation, but it is given as the gist of something like 20 or 30 wordy volumes on the shelves of Carnegie Library and may perhaps suffice to explain the difference in stature and wight of some 1,748,000,000 inhabitants of the earth.

The pituitary gland upon whose shoulders rests the human brain and all these other responsibilities is situated in the very heart of the skull at the root of the nose and up until recent years, its functions were unknown to medical science. Ancients referred to it as the seat of the soul.

The gland is divided into two parts, or lobes—the anterior and posterior. The function of the anterior, or larger lobe, is to secrete a powerful body fluid known as hormone.

The posterior lobe's duty has to do with the proper distribution of fatty properties in the body.

If there is an over-activity on the part of the anterior lobe and an over-abundance of hormone is produced, bones grow larger than ordinarily and the body reaches proportions of a giant. If there is a deficiency the bones and body proportionment fall below normalcy and a dwarf is the result.

Obesity is the result of a deficiency in the posterior lobe, or the reaction is reversed when the posterior lobe is too active. In some persons, both lobes are subnormal.

Recent experiments with the secretion of ox glands on rats have produced giant rodents, some of them twice as big as their fellows. Scientists have found it difficult to create an insufficiency of the gland secretion, by reason of the organ lying close to the brain. Death invariably results in attempts to reach the gland.

Gets Priceless "Strad," 1716, For $3 Can

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Twenty years ago John W. Kilpatrick swapped a $3 hand fire extinguisher for a dusty violin. He gave the instrument to his daughter, Lila, to practice on, with the intention of buying a better one later. Somehow she always seemed satisfied with the violin and perhaps the inscription found in it yesterday had something to do with it. It reads: "Antonious Stradivarius, Cremmorenfis Faciebat, Anno, 1716."

County Refuses to Pay for Twp. Roads

Boroughs and townships in the county which wish to have roads improved must contribute a fair share in the improvements. This was the attitude of County Commissioners when they rejected a proposal of Castle Shannon borough and Bethel and Baldwin townships authorities for the improvement of McRoberts road. The improvement will cost $12,700. The two townships and the borough officials agreed to pay a total of $3,700 towards the cost, leaving the burden on the county to the extent of $9,000. As the road is not a county owned road, the County Commissioners contended that the townships and borough should pay at least 50 per cent and refused to accept the proposal.

FIRE GANG URGED SOS FROM VESTRIS SUNDAY

By DAVID P. SENTNER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The "Black Gang" of the coffin-ship Vestris—those anonymous slaves who sweat in the bowels of a vessel—knew that the steamer was doomed.

Twenty-three coal trimmers of the Vestris who arrived today among the rescued aboard the French tanker Myriam, declared that the Vestris left Hoboken with a coal port partially open about four feet above the water line.

Like the trickle through a Holland dyke which developed into a flood, it was through this incompletely closed coal port that a storm-tossed ocean poured causing one of the great sea disasters of modern times.

ASKED SOS SUNDAY

The water mounted steadily in the engine room all day Sunday, according to members of the "black gang," and when it was almost up to their necks, they asked that an SOS be sent out.

"All day Sunday we urged an officer to tell the captain to send out an SOS, but we were told the captain could not be moved," declared Evans Hampden, Negro.

The SOS from the Vestris was not sent out until Monday morning.

Their warning unheeded, the engine feeders stuck to their job. It was 12 hours before that the first SOS was sent out to the world. The starboard boiler was out. Lifelines had to be stretched to the port boiler for men to swim along the sloping floor. Two trimmers held the man with the shovel as he attempted to get in the coal.

Hampden said they were ordered to keep at least one boiler going so that there would be power enough for the radio when the captain decided to send out the SOS.

15 DEGREE LIST AT NOON

It was 4 a. m. Sunday morning when the early engine room shift reported water coming in threateningly through the open port, Hampden said. A squad of men attacked the open port hole with sledges and mallets but could not close it, he declared.

Then the boatswain's mate had crates and tarpaulins placed over the opening in an attempt to stem the tide. Before Sunday noon the list to starboard was 15 degrees, Hampden asserted.

Thomas Edwards, white, first class steward, said the desperate situation in the engine room was known above deck most of Sunday. The stewards, with other members of the crew, were sent below to work on the engine room pumps, he said.

"If you don't want your son harmed, leave $2,000 under the doorstep," the note read. Written in pencil on a piece of cheap paper, the note was turned over to police. The woman was unable to give police any information that might point to the parties responsible for the threat.

The hearing today was to have been held in police court.

HOOVER WILL MAKE S. AMERICA TRIP AS PRIVATE CITIZEN

PRESIDENT-ELECT SHUNS OFFICIAL STATUS ON TOUR

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 15.—President-elect Hoover has rejected the suggestion that he visit Latin-America as the official representative of the United States government.

He insists upon making his good will tour through the southern republics as a private citizen and has accordingly refused to accept official diplomatic status.

The uncertainty on this point which has perplexed diplomatic observers at home and abroad since the Hoover tour was announced at the White House a week ago was cleared today by final orders issued at Mare Island navy yard for the personnel complement of the battleship Maryland, which is to carry the President-elect on the Pacific leg of the 10,000-mile friendship jaunt.

EXTRA MARINES

Although an extra detachment of marines has been assigned to the battleship for guard duty and personal detail during the voyage, no provision has been made for either the military or naval aides and escorts required by diplomatic usage for formal government missions.

When Mr. Hoover goes ashore, he will go as a citizen of the United States visiting a foreign soil. His diplomatic privileges and immunities will be limited to those extended by the various governments as honors and courtesies to a distinguished visitor.

Mr. Hoover's rejection of the more formal status is understood by ranking naval officers at Mare Island to have been dictated by his determination to avoid all discussions along his route which might be construed as a pledge of policy from his own administration, which begins March 4.

First among the moves clarifying the status of the tour was the decision that Mrs. Hoover and her secretary, Miss Ruth Fessler, of Duluth, Minn., would be members of the party.

Secondly, it was determined that George Barr Baker, intimate friend and close campaign adviser of the President-elect since the Kansas City convention, would be aboard the Maryland.

Third, it was learned that no definite and binding itinerary will be made public before the Maryland steams out of San Pedro harbor next Monday morning. But as now decided in Mr. Hoover's mind, the tour will include visits to Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Chile, Peru, the Argentine, Uruguay and possibly Cuba. Whether Bolivia and Paraguay will be added later remains entirely with the President-elect.

Stealer of Four Cars Had His Reasons

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—There are many reasons why a person might steal an automobile and William L. Fenker knew them all.

Judge Lindley, before whom Fenker appeared yesterday, enumerated the cars Fenker was charged with having stolen.

"My wife and four children needed food, so I stole a car," replied Fenker.

"And the second car?" pursued the court.

"My wife needed an operation so I stole a car," said Fenker.

"And the next two cars?"

"A friend of mine needed money," said Fenker, "so I helped him steal the machines."

HIGH FARE JUST, BUS OWNERS INSIST

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Is there 15 cents worth of difference? A. W. Robertson, president of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, again pointed to the geographical peculiarities of Pittsburgh and to the type of service rendered as justification for the continuance of the 25-cent bus fare, in his answer to the question submitted on transportation problems by the Allied Boards of Trade.

CARS ALSO UNFAVORABLE

The same unfavorable conditions which he points to in speaking of the buses are also applicable to the street cars. The street cars have to climb the hills. They have the same disadvantage of a widely scattered population. Pittsburgh's street carfare of 8 1-3 cents is only slightly higher than the average for cities of this class. It is not two and a half times as great. It is common knowledge that the Pittsburgh Railways Company is not rolling in wealth but its financial difficulties are duplicated in dozens of other cities. Its condition is representative of most street car lines and is better than many.

Comparisons of the luxurious bus service of Pittsburgh with service in other cities have shown only minor differences. The most outstanding difference has been that in many other cities 10-cent assures the rider a seat while here 25-cents gets only a spot on the floor in rush hours.

NO DIFFICULT HILLS

The buses do not encounter particularly difficult hills on the existing routes. Bigelow boulevard is a long hill but any motorist knows that it does not offer serious difficulties. The same is true of the Boulevard of the Allies and of West Liberty avenue. Other than these the buses encounter no hills of either great length or with heavy grades.

If the truth of Mr. Robertson's statements about operating conditions and the superiority of the equipment is granted it still remains difficult to find 15 cents more worth of service.

The further assertion that a low bus fare would ruin the street car service will bear some scrutiny as well. In the first place, Mr. Robertson states that the major portion of bus lines being established are to reach districts not adequately served by street cars. In the second place the Sun-Telegraph inquiry was instituted to show that the 25-cent bus fare was too high, not to place the fare at 10-cents, or at any other arbitrary figure. There is a long range between 25-cents and 8 1-3 cents. Somewhere between is a point which is fair to the bus rider and still not so competitive that the street car will be driven from the streets.

One indisputable answer to all of the smoke screen of defense thrown around the bus fares is the fact buses are being run in Pittsburgh, now for less than 25 cents. The Oriole Motor Coach Company is carrying people to Mt. Lebanon for a straight cash fare of 20 cents or five rides for 75 cents. This amounts to 15 cents a ride.

TWO SQUIRREL HILL BUS ROUTES MAY REPLACE ONE

Demand for the improvement of bus service to the Squirrel Hill district has resulted in the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company filing application with the Public Service Commission for the right to abandon the presenet route and substitute two other routes. Additional coaches would be put into service.

The present route, which would be abandoned, extends from Fifth avenue and Liberty avenue over Fifth to Grant street to the Boulevard of the Allies to Emily street to Wilmot street to and through Schenley Park to Beacon to Wightman to Pocusett to Forward avenue to Beechwood boulevard at Phillips avenue, the end of the line, returning by way of the boulevard to Darlington road to Beacon through Schenley Park and following the same route as the outbound to Grant and Diamond street, thence to the point of beginning.

The new routes would follow the present streets from Liberty and Fifth avenue to a point at the merry-go-round in Schenley Park from which point the routes would be as follows:

Schenley Park drive to Greenfield Bridge to Beechwood boulevard to Forward avenue to Beechwood boulevard again, the outer terminal, thence along the boulevard to Monitor street to the boulevard to Greenfield Avenue Bridge into Schenley Park and thence downtown over the regular route.

Schenley Park drive to Beacon street to Darlington road to Beechwood boulevard to Phillips avenue, outer terminal, over Phillips avenue to Wightman street to Beacon through Schenley Park and thence over the usual downtown route.

Pasteur

His Work Lives After Him

The story of medicine since Pasteur reads like a romance. A wonderful story of achievement, of work and struggle, disappointment and hope. A constant fight against ignorance, which cloaked diseases. Though no longer living, the influence of his noble lifework, zeal and devotion will never die, but will live on forever, for those upon whom his mantle has fallen carry on the work as conscientiously as he did, being attracted by the same motives.

Wyndham Fleece Overcoats

Exclusively Gimbels—With a Nap That Won't Wear Off —Outstanding Value at

One of the most desired winter fabrics is FLEECE, which, though light and soft, is warm and snug. The trouble with fleece formerly was that the nap on the surface wore off. If this could be remedied, the perfect overcoat fabric was found!

Gimbels, in searching for a solution, found a fabric . . . a fleece fabric, that stood twice as much rubbing as the average. Its makers explained the difference. Instead of being woven under and over, the threads were looped. This reduced the friction and prolonged the life of the goods. A secret blend of yarns also helped.

Satisfied that it was what we had been looking for, we purchased a large number of finely tailored coats made of it. Wyndham Fleece Overcoats. As beautiful when made up as the fabric is serviceable. Four models. Grays, blues, tans, browns of the season. We think the value widely surpasses our description.

SLASHING OF VESTRIS LIFEBOAT ROPE HURLS 30 INTO SEA

PLUNGES NOSE DOWN; NEGRO USES RAZOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(INS.)—A passenger who thought to get a lifeboat hanging from the side of the Vestris more quickly cut the bow davit ropes. The boat dropped nose first and flung 30 or more persons, mostly women, into a debris-filled sea.

William Cadogan, a Negro of New York City, today told the story of his part in the fatal confusion that marked the abandonment of the Vestris. Cadogan was one of eight passengers arriving today on the French tanker Myriam. He is a former employe of the Lamport and Holt line which operated the Vestris.

"I was in one of the first three lifeboats to be swung over the side of the Vestris," Cadogan told.

"There were about 30 people in the boat.

"There were 8 lifeboats to take 258 people and when we saw our boat was filled we called to Capt. Carey to lower us. He was standing on the deck. The captain turned away, refusing to give the order to lower our boat and directed his attention to the loading of another boat.

LIST INCREASES

"Meanwhile, as we hung suspended over the water the list of the ship was increasing so that it looked as if our boat would not clear the side.

"I whipped out a razor and cut the ropes from the davits that held the lifeboat at the bow. The ropes at the stern held and the boat dropped forward, spilling the people out. They fell into the sea.

"After I got into another lifeboat and we were saved by the Myriam after drifting around in the water for several hours."

NO THOUGHT OF ACCIDENT

"In cutting the ropes," Cadogan said, "I thought I would lower the boat into the water before it struck the side of the ship and was smashed.

"As it hung by the davit by the tail ropes a big wave lifted the lifeboat and crushed it against the side of the Vestris."

CALL SURVIVORS IN QUIZ

upon the nature of the questioning, or to answer charges leveled at the crew by passengers.

Tuttle and his assistants lost no time in launching the inquiry even though there is some question of the jurisdiction in any criminal proceedings that may be instituted. The Lamport & Holt steamship Vestris was of British registry.

BRITISH PROBE ORDERED

The Board of Trade—that section of the British government which deals with marine shipping—will make a vigorous inquiry into the loss of the Vestris, it was officially announced this afternoon. The registry of the Vestris was British.

The statement follows:

"Searching inquiry must be made both into the loss of the Vestris and the loss of life. The date and place of the inquiry will be announced later."

At Washington a Congressional investigation of the sinking is advocated by Senator Fletcher, Democrat, of Florida, ranking member of his party on the Commerce Committee.

The federal inquiry is seeking to determine, on the basis of charges made by survivors, the following:

1. Why wasn't the SOS sent out sooner from the Vestris?
2. Did the company fail, as alleged by survivors, to provide adequate safety equipment?
3. Was Capt. William Carey, the commander who went down with his ill-fated ship, guilty of inefficiency and vacillation in the face of danger?
4. Were the officers of the Vestris guilty of callous indifference?
5. Did the crew, as a whole, look out for itself at the expense of the passengers?
6. Were the lifeboats in bad condition?
7. Did the Vestris leave its port in New York listing somewhat and not in the best of condition for a sea voyage?

MURDER CHARGES LOOM

Tuttle designated his assistants to round up witnesses today "to fix the responsibility and perpetuate the facts." It was not long after the investigation was started that one of Tuttle's assistants, Edward Silver, declared that murder charges would be in order if some of the stories related by survivors concerning the conduct of the crew were substantiated.

Heavy prison sentences could be given, under federal law, to any convicted of negligent operation of passenger steamships, Silver said.

Officials of Sanderson & Co., local representatives of the Lamport & Holt line, operators of the Vestris, were reluctant to make any comment upon the bitter charges made by the survivors.

205 LANDED AT NEW YORK

The charges piled up soon after the arrival here yesterday of the steamships American Shipper and Berlin with a total of 148 persons rescued from lifeboats after the British liner, bound from New York to South America, foundered 240 miles off the Virginia Capes Monday.

Early today the French tanker Myriam docked in Brooklyn with 57 survivors, some of whom supported the charges, while others denied them or remained silent. Nine survivors, aboard the U. S. Wyoming, were to be landed at Norfolk, Va.

A statistical review of the tragedy shows that:

Aboard were 328 persons, 129 passengers, 199 crew.

Rescued—60 passengers and 154 crew; total, 214.

Presumably dead—69 passengers, 45 crew; total, 114.

Bodies recovered—22; four by the coast guard destroyer Tucker, four by the destroyer Acushnet, 13 by the destroyer Shaw, one by the Berlin.

Missing—92.

Among the dead and missing are 27 women, 13 children.

COURT ORDERS MINERS' RELIEF BOOKS PRODUCED

The federal government is still probing activities of various committees that gathered funds during the recent coal strike.

This was made known today when Judge F. P. Schoonmaker signed an order, on petition of Frank S. Bond, foreman of the grand jury, directing Caroline Drew, bookkeeper; A. Wagenknecht and Miss Dorothy Roth, 410 Martin Building, to produce certain books and records of the Western Pennsylvania Miners' Relief Committee, the Pennsylvania-Ohio Miners' Relief Committee and the National Miners' Relief Committee.

The order demands the surrender to court of ledgers, journals, cash books, collection list and distribution lists, canceled checks and drafts and bank books.

The petition recites that witnesses appearing before the grand jury have testified to apparent violations of the postal laws. A similar order was made last March against Wagenknecht, when he had headquarters in the Lyceum Building, but before the order was executed the grand jury adjourned.

W. VA. STABBER CONVICTED

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Stanley Campbell, 22, Wheeling, charged with fatally stabbing Joseph Wild, 25, Pennsylvania and Ohio miner, was convicted last night of murder in the second degree by a jury in Intermediate Court here.

Sentence was not passed, pending motion for a new trial. Under the West Virginia code, a second degree murder verdict carries a prison sentence of from five to 18 years.

Rheumatic Sufferers!

New Discovery from Europe Brings World Famous Bath Treatment to Your Own Tub!

A well known scientist of Europe has made a new discovery that almost promises to wipe out Rheumatic pains. It is a scientific concentration of world-famous mineral springs to which is added in a new and more effective way other ingredients of known value to the medical profession. It is called Transkutan and is now available for use in your own bath tub.

And note! There are no long drawn out expensive treatments that do not show for months whether or not they are helping you. The very first Transkutan bath will determine whether or not you can expect relief from the Transkutan treatment. European specialists say 97% of all cases benefit magically thru Transkutan—if you are one of the 3% who do not benefit, the treatment costs you nothing.

Do this: Go to any of (May's) Drug Stores or McCulloch Stores or your favorite druggist right now. Merely deposit with him $5 for your test bottle of Transkutan. If you happen to be one of the rare few who do not experience noticeable relief from pain from the first Transkutan bath return the empty bottle to the druggist and he will immediately return your $5 deposit. Thus you can determine, without risking one cent, whether or not Transkutan can help you.

CITY AIDS MAN DETECTIVE SHOT

Stanley J. Brosky, 26, of 3340 Parkview avenue, who is in a critical condition in Homeopathic Hospital as a result of having been shot November 3, by Precinct Detective Joseph Bozo) Lavery, will be given the best medical attention at the city's expense under a resolution passed yesterday by Council.

Brosky and another youth were sitting in an automobile parked in Oakland avenue near Forbes street when Lavery, flourishing a revolver, demanded Brosky's driver's license. Lavery, it s said, took a card case handed to him by Brosky to the front of the car to examine the contents with aid of the headlights. He returned to the occupants of the car and ordered Brosky to throw up his hands. While Brosky's arms were extended the revolver was discharged sending a bullet through Brosky's chest.

In considering the case Tuesday, Council requested Safety Director James M. Clark for a full report on the shooting. Particular stress was laid on an inquiry as to whether Lavery was still on duty in addition to other questions as to the city's liability and whether the city was protected in any bond posted by Lavery in connection with his employment as a policeman.

Clark replied yesterday by transmitting copies of reports to him from Peter P. Walsh, Superintendent of Police and Commissioner Albert Bebee, in charge of Oakland Station.

The report stated that Lavery was looking for a stolen automobile; that the wallet Brosky handed him did not contain a driver's license; and that when Lavery returned to the side of the car Brosky's companion grabbed the revolver before it was discharged. The report ignored the inquiry as to whether Lavery was still working.

The report stated that Lavery had been arrested on a "suspicious person" charge. Daniel Winters scoffed at such a charge and demanded to know why the police should enter it against any person as well known to them as Lavery.

On motion of Winters, the safety department was requested to report whether Lavery had been ordered to appear before the police trial board and if he had been, to submit the findings of the board to Council in full detains.

P. J. McArdle pointed out that Clark's report was unsatisfactory and successfully offered a motion calling for an explanation of Lavery's responsibility in the shooting.

Brosky's character was extolled by Joseph Rosenblatt, Superintendent of Oakland Station of Pittsburgh Postoffice, where the wounded youth was employed for the last six years.

Rosenblatt said when Brosky was examined at the hospital he was told he might die and was asked to make a statemnet.

That statement, which was believed to be an ante-mortem one, conflicted with the police explanation of the shooting, Rosenblatt said.

Robert Garland offered a resolution requesting that Council be furnished with a copy of the "ante-mortem" statement so that it would be possible to "get the truth."

In discussing the necessity of the resolution authorizing the city to pay Brosky's medical expense, Rosenblatt explained that the wounded youth is the sole support of a helpless invalid brother and a minor sister.

Rosenblatt said that after Brosky was in the hospital two days hovering between life and death, the hospital authorities inquired as to who would pay his bill.

The Knitted Hat

At sports meets, the knitted skullcap or turban of wool or angora. On the street, knitted models of chenille, of angora-with-braid, or of metal-threaded rayon. At afternoon teas and at dinners, turbans of metal mesh suavely confining the hair.

Yes, knitted hats are seen in many smart places, and most of them come from one smart source—the Millinery Salons at Horne's. $10 to $28.50.

"Know your store, in buying an inexpensive black coat"—that is advice which it is very important to follow, for a black coat, of all coats, is surest to show inferiorities in the course of wear.

These coats are of dull kashmir weaves and lustrous flat fabrics—all-wool cloths in a true black shade.

They are trimmed with real furs, called by their real names, as Horne coats always are . . . black caracul (Arabian lamb), black skunk, gray wolf, brown-toned marmot.

HOME RULE ON SALARIES, SURVEY PLAN

PAY FOR JUDGES RAISES QUESTION OF MINIMUM

Home rule in fixing salaries of employes of municipal subdivisions other than constitutional officers was the keynote of suggestions expressed at a hearing before the Pennsylvania Salary Survey Commission yesterday in Council Chamber.

The commission was appointed by the last Legislature to inquire into salaries fixed by the state and visited Pittsburgh in its tour of the state. Recommendations resulting from the survey will be submitted when the Legislature convenes next January.

Proposals to establish a sliding scale for the judges' salaries were received with equivocation. It was pointed out that the plan might serve to pay a belated debt to the older men on the bench, but that the minimum would be too low to attract proper men to the bench in the future.

A suggestion was made to fix $15,000 as the minimum for judges of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties. Similar subdivisions in England pay $25,000, it was said.

Judges encounter considerable annoyance by the Legislature fixing a minimum and maximum salary for court attaches, it was said, as an employe starting at the lowest salary is continually beseiging the judges to increase the pay to the maximum amount. A fixed amount would be preferable, it was declared.

JUDGES SPEAK

Spokesmen for the judges were John A. Evans, presiding judge of Common Pleas Court, and Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills and clerk of the Orphans' Court.

County Controller Robert G. Woodside, chairman of the State Controllers' Association, favored retention of the system whereby the Legislature controls salaries for certain positions.

County Treasurer John Francies urged equalization of treasurers' compensation. He declared that he is paid at the ratio of $1,600 a year for each $1,000,000 collected for the county and said the position was the least desirable of offices.

Sheriff Robert H. Braun advocated adjustments in sheriffs' pay and submitted that the office in Philadelphia county receives $15,000 as compared with the $8,000 paid in Allegheny county.

Members of the commission include Clinton Rodgers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, chairman; Representative Helen Grimes, secretary; Morris Wilkin, of Philadelphia, and John Fertig, assistant chief of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

A property on the south side of East Garden road, Brentwood, lot 36x229 feet, has been sold by George N. Gourley for Edward W. Ullmann.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stageland. She's Collette Francis, of 253 East 25th St., Brooklyn, now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I put a few drops of Danderine on my brush every time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now.

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives true and lasting scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

May's Remarkable Offer to Any Person in Pittsburgh Who Suffers From the Pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica or Swollen Joints

You Can Now Buy a Regular Full-Sized Package of An Amazingly Successful German Remedy Without Risking a Penny

IMPORTANT NOTICE—By special arrangement we can now extend to any person in Pittsburgh who suffers from the terrible racking pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis or joint trouble the opportunity of trying an amazing new German discovery which is guaranteed to give quick relief from the agony and suffering caused by these ailments.

You may wonder how we can afford to do this. The answer is so many people have been benefited by this new treatment that the manufacturers have given us a written guarantee that we will not have to pay for a single package that does not produce results absolutely satisfactory to each individual user.

The terrible pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica or Swollen Joints are always due to an infection which can often be traced to toxic poisons, such as blind pus pocket in a tooth, diseased tonsils or the poisons set free by constipation. These poisons are carried in the blood, setting up infections which result in agonizing rheumatic joint and nerve ailments. Rheunesia Tablets, as this amazing treatment is called, helps the blood throw off these violent poisons and neutralizes the toxic acids in much the same way as Milk of Magnesia neutralizes an acid stomach, thus giving instant relief from pain.

Even in the most advanced and stubborn cases, the use of this remarkable preparation has shown astonishing improvement at once in many cases. Tired muscles regain life, creaking joints with the pain all gone become supple and an-noying Rheumatic twinges cease almost instantly.

Scientists now know that none of the old methods of treatment really got to the cause of the trouble. We claim that Rheunesia will prove to you in a few minutes' time that it does get right at the cause of your trouble, because you yourself will see what instant relief it gives you. You take no risk at all. Try it for a week and note the improvement in your own case. Since it costs nothing for any person that is not benefited, it would seem that anyone who suffers from pain should give it a trial at once.

Trial Coupon

Fill in this coupon with your name and address and bring it right to May's Drug Stores. Deposit with us $1.95, which is our special price for the regular $3.50 package of Rheunesia. This is not a payment but a deposit only. If you are not more than delighted with the results obtained by a week's use of Rheunesia simply return the package and we will promptly refund your money without argument.

Gentlemen:

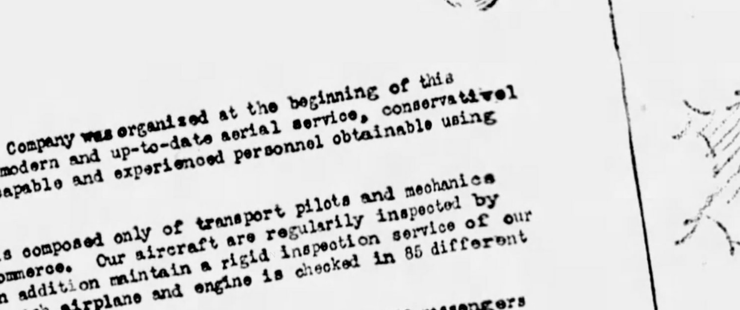
As you know this Company was organized at the beginning of this year to provide Baltimore with a modern and up-to-date aerial service, conservatively and safely operated by the most capable and experienced personnel obtainable using only new and modern aircraft.

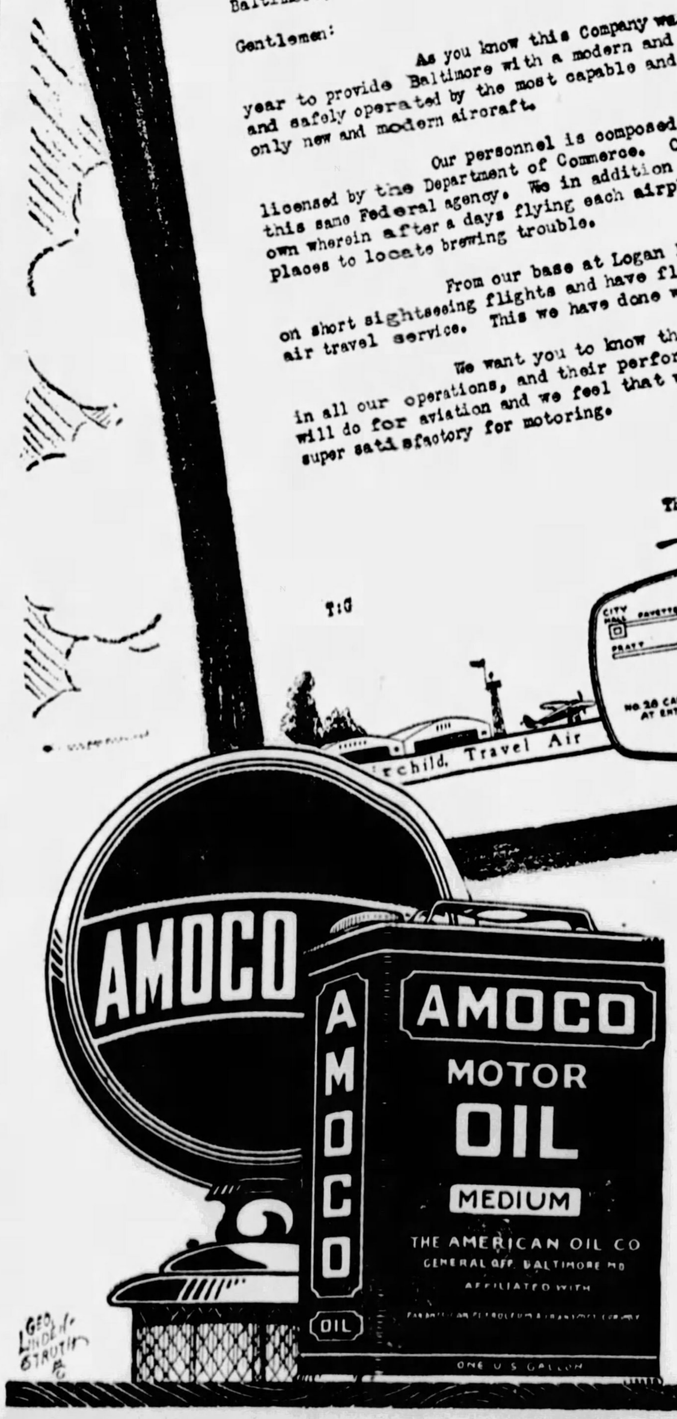
Our personnel is composed only of transport pilots and mechanics licensed by the Department of Commerce. Our aircraft are regularly inspected by this same Federal agency. We in addition maintain a rigid inspection service of our own wherein after a days flying each airplane and engine is checked in 85 different places to locate brewing trouble.

From our base at Logan Field we have carried over 6000 passengers on short sightseeing flights and have flown over 78,000 miles in operation of our air travel service. This we have done without injury to our passengers.

We want you to know that Amoco products are being used exclusively in all our operations, and their performance has been 100 percent. Only the best will do for aviation and we feel that what is satisfactory for aviation should be super satisfactory for motoring.

Yours very truly,
THE CHESAPEAKE AIRCRAFT COMPANY
W. D. Tipton





That's the proud record of the Chesapeake Aircraft Company as you'll see by the letter.

And you'll also see that AMOCO Products are being used exclusively in the airplanes of this leader in aerial transportation.

Safety in the air depends to a tremendous degree on the dependability of gas and oil--and to quote the letter--

"Only the best will do for aviation and we feel that what is satisfactory for aviation should be super-satisfactory for motoring."

And AMOCO-GAS and AMOCO MOTOR OIL are "super-satisfactory" for motoring as thousands of users can testify!

WRITING ZAIN ADS

JEANNETTE HOFFMAN

Miss Jeannette Hoffman, 5517 Black street, is one of the players of the captivating Zain Ad-Test game. For the best advertisement by an amateur writer, a grand prize of $1,000 will be given by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Ads must be received before midnight tonight.

GIVE EXTRA PRIZES

The Haller Baking Company gave seven special prizes last week—two more than they had promised. The winners were: Beulah C. Clark, 250 Ashland avenue, Mt. Lebanon; Dorothy Leberknight, 413 Denniston avenue; Lenore C. Stieren, 1126 Kelton avenue, Dormont; R. B. Koerner, 36 Glenmore avenue, West View; Eleda H. Porter, 5239 Holmes street; Deborah Dunning, 6609 Jackson street, and Jane McCullough, 30 Spencer street, Leetsdale.

Your ads may be brief. The form is not necessarily important. It is the idea that counts. Professional ad writers and newspaper employes are barred from the test.

Some industrious persons, fertile in ideas, may even at this late hour write ads about all of the 39 firms, get them in in time, and stand a chance of winning the grand prize.

The best way to get ideas for ads is to visit the stores of the co-operating concerns, get acquainted with their goods and service, and ask questions. They will be glad to help with suggestions.

In writing about the music stores of the S. Hamilton Company you might call attention to how easy it is, by dealing with Hamilton's, to put music in the home.

You can probably do no better in writing about the business of the Dunlevy-Franklin Company than to feature their famous pork sausage.

Write about the B-Line Gas Boilers and the Pennsylvania Gas Furnace in your ad about the Peoples Natural Gas Company.

The value of title insurance as a means of protecting one from the loss of property through a defect in the title should be the theme of your ad about the Potter Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company.

WASHDAY RELIEF

Think how the United Laundries relieve housewives of drudgery when you come to write about that concern.

Go to one of Reymers' numerous stores, buy some of their candy, and try it. It will give you inspiration for an ad.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Penn. Child Amazes Mother

Constipation is one of the worst health-ruiners for children. Waste matter held too long in their little stomachs and bowels forms poisons which pollute their blood, causes headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, indigestion; makes them bilious, weak, sallow, fretful and underweight.

At the first sign of constipation, give your child a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It's purely vegetable, a gentle but certain laxative, and it gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Thousands of Pennsylvania mothers are praising it. Mrs. Rose M. Crosson, 225 So. Frazier St., Philadelphia, says: "My little son, Billy, was bilious and constipated. His breath was bad and he never wanted anything to eat. He was fretful, pale and weak.

"Nothing seemed to help him until I got some California Fig Syrup. His trouble stopped after the first few doses, and he amazed me by the way his pretty, natural color came back. Soon he was as playful and happy as ever and he's been gaining ever since."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

STOP THAT COLD!

The new safe way to heal head and chest colds does away with all "doping". Simply ask your druggist for a jar of WHYTE-FOX No. 2. Apply and inhale for instant relief. Ideal for children—heals and soothes without upsetting the stomach.

NEW ORPHANS COURT RULES

Rules governing Orphans' Court are antiquated and far behind the times, according to Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell. The Register was granted an appropriation of $750 by County Commissioners to have printed and circulated among the 1,800 members of the County Bar Association a circular containing a new set of rules which will conform with existing laws of the court.

A committee composed of lawyers and judges of Orphans' Court recently completed revamping the rules. Attorneys receiving the circular will be asked to make suggestions for changes.

Tipple Near Latrobe Destroyed by Fire

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 15.—An abandoned coal tipple of the Unity-Connellsville Coal and Coke Company near here, was destroyed by fire. A number of company houses adjoining were menaced. Workmen using torches in removing metal from the tipple are believed to have caused the fire.

ASK NORTH SIDE REROUTING

Representatives of the Better Traffic Committee, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and downtown business men were appointed members of a committee at a meeting of downtown business men yesterday in the Roosevelt Hotel, to report on routing of street cars entering the downtown from the North Side. Representatives of business establishments in the districts bounded by Ninth street, Penn avenue, Stanwix street and Duquesne way were present.

Albert H. Burchfield presided. The aim of the group, he said, was to study street car traffic originating on the North Side and then to suggest plans for the re-routing of cars and the establishment of safety zones and parking areas.

The working committee appointed consists of Burton W. Marsh, city engineer; Traffic Inspector Ben R. Marshall; F. L. Dugan, of the Better Traffic Committee; M. W. Cooke, of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and H. M. Jackson, Leo Lehman, F. C. Schatz, L. F. Klooz and Fred W. McCullough.

Mercer Silk Mill To Enlarge Plant

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 15.—Increased orders have placed the Mercer Silk Mills in full capacity operation. Plans are being made to erect an addition to the plant.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation!"

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

AN INNOCENT LIAR

By EMILY BURTON

FOR 30 long hard years Marvin Trent had counted her nickels and dimes, taking care that each one bought something that was absolutely necessary. Then, without any warning of her change in fortune, she found herself an heiress.

Silas Trent, a bachelor uncle, whom she had never seen, died without a will and Marvin inherited his factory in Chicago.

Two days after she received the letter from Silas Trent's lawyer, she registered at a Chicago hotel. Two days after that she started out on a triumphant shopping tour. She was going to buy the pretty clothes that she had wanted all her life.

Marvin loved bright colors; she adored frills and furbelows; she reveled in shimmering silks and satins. So delighted was she with her purchases that she asked permission to don her new apparel in the department store. And when she was arrayed in her new finery she looked worse than she did before.

She heard two saleswomen giggle as she walked out of the dressing room. She saw the bell boys exchange glances when she entered the hotel lobby. She caught the room clerk's gleeful expression as he handed her her keys. When she stepped out of the elevator she heard a voice behind her say, "It's Mardi Gras!"

When she reached her room she stood and looked at her mirrored self through tear-dimmed eyes.

"It's too late Marvin Trent," she told herself, "you'll never be anything but a sad old maid. Money can't make you over."

After that day she wore only dark colors and paid little attention to style.

She moved into her uncle's big gloomy house. She felt its chill and its somberness; but it did not occur to her to have it redecorated. Marvin was an unpretentious soul and she was still a little dazed by her change of circumstances.

As soon as it became known that she had inherited the Trent millions, Marvin was besieged with requests for charity. When the Christmas season drew near, the calls were more frequent and urgent. At last her patience was exhausted.

"Tell the next person who comes here soliciting funds that I am not at home," she said to Mrs. Jenks, the housekeeper. "Find out what he wants and why. If it is a worthy cause I'll mail him a check."

On the heels of this ultimatum came Leighton Byrd.

"I'd like to see Miss Trent," he stated.

"She is not at home," lied Mrs. Jenks.

"Then let me speak with her secretary please," he said, "I am Leighton Byrd from the factory."

"Oh!" stammered the confused woman, "just wait a moment."

Stepping to the library door she called, "Miss Marvin."

A rather subdued and very plainly clad young woman appeared and Leighton Byrd assumed that she was the secretary for whom he had asked. He addressed her as "Miss Marvin" and gave her the message he wished delivered to Miss Trent.

Marvin grasped the situation but it amused her to let him continue his assumption.

"Mr. Trent always gave his employes a Christmas tree," he said, "and he was rather keen about selecting the presents himself. I came to find out what Miss Trent wants done this year."

"Suppose I telephone you tomorrow," she evaded.

She thought a great deal about that proposed Christmas tree during the night, and Leighton Byrd's interesting face mingled provokingly with her thoughts. She waited until noon to call him next day.

"Miss Marvin speaking," she said crisply when he answered the telephone. "Miss Trent wishes the employes to have their usual Christmas tree and I have been detailed to select the presents."

"That's great," came back the hearty reply. "I used to help Mr. Trent with his shopping. If I can be of any service to you—"

"I'll ask Miss Trent if she wishes you to go with her." Marvin covered the mouthpiece with her hand and let him wait.

Presently she spoke again.

"Miss Trent thinks it will be advisable for you to assist in purchasing the gifts."

Those expeditions into Chicago stores with Leighton Byrd became glorious adventures for Marvin. There were conferences too in the evenings and sometimes over a midday luncheon together.

That he found genuine pleasure in Marvin's society was quite evident. That he bore the owner of his factory an unmentioned grudge was also evident.

"I'm glad I'm with you instead of that high-and-mighty Miss Trent," he said one day.

"She isn't really high and mighty," answered Marvin. "She's just a fool."

"A fool to love you so when you don't care a rap about me," she added mentally.

It was on Christmas Eve while they were decorating the festive tree that the truth was revealed.

Marvin tripped over a package and lost her balance. His outstretched arm saved her from falling. Whether it was necessary for him to hold her so close neither of them thought to inquire. In fact neither of them thought of anything during that ecstatic moment. She was in his arms. That was all that mattered.

She told him eventually who she was. But by that time they both knew that their love was the only thing of paramount importance to them. That's why they married and why they are still wonderfully happy together.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Sewickley Girl to Make Debut on Saturday In New York

THAT important little group of Sewickley debutantes has been increased by one, I have just learned—a girl whose name hasn't been mentioned at all, so far in connection with this season. She is Mollie Cullum, daughter of the James Barlow Cullums, of East drive, Sewickley, and instead of making her first bow here, she will be introduced to New York society. Later in the winter, it is expected that she will be presented to her parents' friends in Sewickley and Pittsburgh.

Mollie will make her New York debut, I understand, with a Farmington schoolmate, Cornelia Prime, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Prime, of Park avenue, are planning to give a large dance for the two girls at their home on Saturday evening. These girls not only attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington, but they studied at the Sorbonne in Paris together last year.

I wonder if you would be interested to know that Mollie is a great-great-niece of the late Gen. George Cullum, United States Army, of New York and Newport, who presented Cullum Hall to the Military Academy at West Point? On her mother's side she is descended from the late James Bennett, pioneer iron and steel man of Pittsburgh.

I HAVE another interesting bit of news for you, and that is an addition to the constantly lengthening number of January weddings. This latest date announced is Saturday, January 5, which has been named by Eleanor McCargo for her marriage to William Lloyd Standish III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson Standish, of Sewickley.

The engagement was announced just last Saturday, you remember, and I told you then that the wedding would be early in January, but Eleanor hadn't given out the exact date at that time. She is a daughter of the Grant McCargos, of Woodland road, and I understand that the wedding will be a very small one in the family home.

BUT to get back to our debutantes. I've heard about several parties being planned for Rhoda Gamble, daughter of the William K. Gambles, of Oakmont. One is a bridge luncheon which Mrs. Richard J. Behan, of Elgin avenue, will give on Monday afternoon, November 26, in the University Club. And Mrs. Gamble is going to entertain all the debutantes at a bridge tea in her home on the third of December.

AT the week's one coming-out party tomorrow afternoon, when Elizabeth Reed Orr will be introduced at a buffet luncheon given in the Twentieth Century Club by her mother, Mrs. A. Hamilton Orr, of Stanton avenue, the debutante will have her sister buds and two other friends as her aides. They will include Jane Allderdice, Margaret Holdship, Oliveretta Sutton, Virginia Willock, Emily Stuart, Jane Edson, Bettie Dunlap, Bettie Guiler, Rebecca Follansbee, Mary Margaret Marshall, Janet MacGregor, Elizabeth McCullough, Marian Stone, Katherine Schley, Peggy Stevenson, Rhoda Gamble, Helen West and Harriet Wainwright, all debutantes; Katherine Ann Evans and Mary Louise Succop.

Mrs. Orr will be assisted by Mrs. William McCullough, Mrs. Alan C. Stevenson, Miss Ida Allerton, Mrs. Charles E. Dickson, Mrs. Thomas Evans, Jr., Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Charles Succop, Mrs. Charles R. Miller, Jr., Mrs. E. Bruce Hill and Mrs. J. Paull Fife.

A SEWICKLEY party of tomorrow evening is a dance which the Prescott L. Lyons, of Orchard Terrace, are giving in the Edgeworth Club for their daughter, Hester. I understand that three cotillions will be danced.

ANOTHER son of the Norman S. Wooldridges, of South Linden avenue, is engaged, I hear. This is the elder son, William Potter Wooldridge, and his engagement to Pernice Sestena Stengel has just been announced by her mother, Mrs. John A. Stengel, of Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark, N. J.

Mr. Wooldridge attended the Virginia Military Institute and was graduated from Lehigh University. His fiancee is a graduate of the Prospect Hill Country Day School at Newark and of Pine Manor School, Wellesley, Mass.

JUST the debutantes were guests at the luncheon which Mrs. Edward M. Brainard and her daughter, Margaret, gave yesterday afternoon in their Woodland road home. The luncheon table was decorated with fall flowers.

* * *

MRS. WILLIAM A. ROBERTS, of Harriet street, entertained with a bridge luncheon in her home today in honor of her stepdaughter, Mrs. William Lamont Walker, of Bellevue, who is leaving the latter part of the month to make her home in Mobile, Ala. There were 20 guests.

Coroner McGregor Gives Safety Talk

"NOT until we have matched every dollar put into golf courses with a dollar for playgrounds have we met our responsibilities in cutting down fatal accidents among children," said Coroner W. J. McGregor in addressing the educational department of the Congress of Clubs yesterday. Dr. McGregor was one of the speakers at the department's "Thanksgiving — No Accident Month" luncheon, and had prefaced the above statement with remarks on the increase in fatal accidents in the home. George C. Clarkson, of the Western Pennsylvania Division of the National Safety Council, awarded the prizes in the home safety radio essay contest, which was an outgrowth of the home safety talks broadcast during the Congress hour by Mrs. E. P. Schempp, who presented yesterday's speakers. The awards were given to Miss Clara Spencer, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Miss Lois A. Miller, Tennessee avenue, Dormont; Miss Ray Bryan, Wapello street, North Side; Mrs. David B. Ludwig, Wellesley avenue, East End; Mrs. C. T. Zook, Jefferson drive, Mt. Lebanon; Mrs. H. H. Ohliger, South Nineteenth street, South Side; Miss Mary M. Sauers, Muth street, North Side; Mrs. C. S. Cunningham, Wilson avenue, North Side; Mrs. F. Yoder, Wilcox street, Carnegie; Mrs. R. T. Alexander, Liberty avenue, East End.

Another speaker, the Rev. R. W. Lloyd, of the Edgewood Presbyterian Church, commented on the increase in safety problems brought about by the increase in urban living. Safety, he said, is in line with the best things of the American spirit. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president, in her word of welcome stressed the different phases of the old safety slogan, "Stay Alive."

Mrs. W. C. McClure led assembly singing; John Philip Ryder, of "The Desert Song" company, with Mrs. Florence Chisholm Douglas at the piano, gave several numbers, and Mrs. Dale Whitby Westphal, accompanied by Mrs. Bertha Gross King, also sang.

The decorations were in fruits and vegetables indicative of the harvest season.

Samson will preside at the luncheon session, in the Hotel Schenley, and the Rev. Waldo Amos, of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will offer the invocation. Music by the vested choir from the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, will be a feature, and Miss Geraldie Alter will symbolize "Peace." Mrs. Dan Everett Waid is the luncheon speaker. In the afternoon the women will return to the Music Hall where Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky will preside. Benedict Glazier, assistant rabbi at Rodef Shalom Temple, will make the prayer, Miss Mathilda Flinn, soprano, will sing, and Dr. Charles Heinroth will present an organ number. ## RADIO FANS GIVEN RULES, IF THEY FAIL, 'GET NEW SET'

Four rules to aid radio fans in clearing the jumble caused by recent changes in broadcasting were formulated today by the engineering committee of the Pittsburgh Radio Council, meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

In announcing the rules, the experts voiced the view that within two weeks the major difficulties will have been eliminated, as by that time the stations will be regulated to the new frequency broadcasting.

Here are the rules:

"Shorten antenna. Be sure you have a good ground. Fifty feet, including the lead-in, is plenty long enough for outside stations. An auxiliary antenna of not more than 15 feet should be used for local stations.

"Buy a wave trap.

"Call a service man to inspect your set.

"If none of the first three rules gets results, buy a new set."

R. F. Clark, chairman of the engineering committee of the Radio Council, declared that "Pittsburgh is a paradise compared with other cities in the new broadcasting."

John M. Froelich, a member of the committee, predicted two weeks would see fans through with trouble and pleased with results.

Allan Machesney, operator at station WCAE, said he liked the new wave length.

"I have investigated a good many complaints," said he, "and found that 75 per cent could be traced to antenna trouble. The antennae have been too long. I like the new wave length for WCAE because there is only one other station of the same frequency, a small station in Lawrence, Kan."

HOLMES SHOWS SPAIN SCENES

The picturesqueness of Andalusia and the beauties of the Alhambra were laid in a mosaic of rare beauty by Burton Holmes last night in a travel revue in the Music Hall of Carnegie Institute before an interested audience.

Mr. Holmes took his audience through Southern Spain, showing and describing the rural and urban life of this interesting land. On through the cities and country he led the way to the land of the conquistadores, the historic shrines of Columbus, the burial place of Ferdinand and Isabella, the old mosques and churches to that monument of Moorish culture and genius, the Alhambra.

Mr. Holmes with his usual deftness selected only the pleasing. In showing a bull fight he deleted the slaying of the bull, but showed the effect on the crowd. It was a great study in facial expression, the spectators acting much like American baseball fans. His pictures of the Alhambra were works of art.

You can't

brush the acids away—but Squibb's neutralizes them

NO TOOTH-BRUSH can scour away the acids in the mouth that cause tooth decay and infected gums.

But Squibb's Dental Cream, because it is made with more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, does neutralize these acids and thus brings protection.

This is borne out by the entire dental profession. In a recent investigation which included 50,000 dentists, 88% of the answers agreed that Milk of Magnesia is the best product known to guard teeth and gums from the threat of acids. 40c a large tube, at all druggists.

SPYING CAR, HE ALSO SPIES WIFE OUT WITH ANOTHER!

Spying his wife's car parked on the Monongahela wharf early today, C. E. Park, 34, of 322 Kenmont avenue, Mt. Lebanon, waited six hours, then caused her arrest when she appeared with another man.

In Morals Court today, the wife, Mrs. Betty Park, 25, and her escort, J. C. Armstrong, 22, of 1831 Montier street, were each fined $50 or 30 days to the workhouse by Magistrate John W. Orie on suspicious person charges.

Armstrong testified he and Mrs. Park had been to a roadhouse, but he couldn't remember the location. Mrs. Park refused to testify. Park, a salesman, said he was on his way home from Youngstown when he saw his wife's car on the wharf. When he found her absent from home he returned to the wharf and, with police, waited for her appearance. Park, also placed in custody, was discharged at the hearing.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

IF YOU are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer:

February 12, 1927

"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. It surely can't be beat for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

MRS. JOSEPH HOGAN,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.

Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it.

A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

OVAL BARN MAY BE RENTED AS CONCESSION

The use of the Schenley oval stables to privately-owned riding horses may be extended through action taken by Council yesterday. Up until the present time it has been used almost exclusively by horses owned by members of the Schenley Matinee Club. Council authorized an ordinance for occupancy of the barns yesterday.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt was requested to prepare the legislation after he has conferred with David G. McDonald, secretary of the Schenley Matinee Club, and O. W. McClain, proprietor of the Oakland Riding Academy, Atwood street. It was inferred that Council may go so far as to consider a concession in the park providing the cost of additional stabling could be turned to profit.

The hearing yesterday was the result of charges from McLain that the Schenley oval barns were being operated as a private livery stable for housing nine horses moved from his establishment. He pointed out that he paid taxes and water rent which the Schenley barns escaped.

McDonald, who has supervised the oval race track for years as the representative of the Matinee Club, explained that the barns have many vacant stalls as a result of the dwindling interest in sulky driving. The club pays the city $600 rent annually for the barns, according to McDonald.

W. J. Moore, mentioned by McLain as having effected the removal of horses from McLain's academy to Schenley oval, said he did so because owners of saddle horses were dissatisfied with the treatment they were getting at the academy and were on the point of taking their stock out of town.

HOOVER, IN LETTER HERE, PRAISES RED CROSS WORK

The American Red Cross "has become an indispensable part of our life," President-Elect Herbert Hoover has written headquarters of the Pittsburgh chapter.

Mr. Hoover said, "In peace and in war, it has served in the name of the American people, and in our most exacting emergencies it has never failed us.

"Its history of the last five years," he continued, "has proved the necessity for maintaining at all times a national organization prepared to act instantly and efficiently in times of great disaster. Its work in the Mississippi Valley flood, and in lesser disasters, has inspired American confidence which need never be shaken so long as we give it the support it deserves. It has become the one guarantee to us that, through coordination of relief efforts under it, loss of life shall be prevented in calamity; that suffering shall be mitigated to the utmost degree, and that the great problems of restoring homes and re-establishing the economic and social life of stricken sections shall go forward speedily and efficiently.

"When the American Red Cross goes into action for the relief of stricken people, we all unconsciously feel, and are proud of that fact, that it is our Red Cross and that we are having a part in its work. It is our privilege and duty to make this a reality, and by becoming members during the annual Roll Call, to have a share in its great work in behalf of humanity."

COUNTY WON'T FIX STATE ROADS

County Commissioners favor the elimination of dangerous curves on roads throughout the county. But they don't believe that the citizens of the county should bear the burden of making such improvements especially if the road is state owned.

The state highway department is anxious to eliminate a bad curve on Clairton boulevard at Library road intersection in Overbrook borough. The improvement will cost $142,100. The highway department is willing to spend $14,000, and Overbrook borough $12,500 toward the expense providing the county contributes $115,600.

"Can't see why we should pay so much when the road is state-owned," remarked County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

"We are always anxious to eliminate dangerous curves, but this county should not be made to to bear the burden."

County Commissioners E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern concurred with their colleague.

THREE PEDESTRIANS RUN DOWN BY BUS

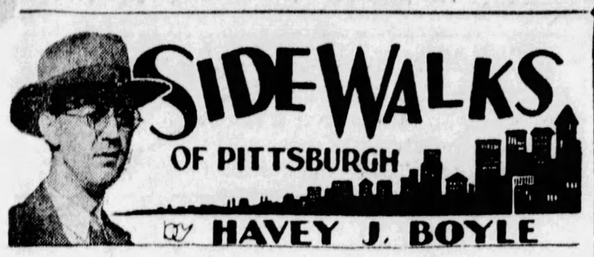
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1928



ONLY one or two of the Pittsburgh betting fraternity had dealings with the late Arnold Rothstein. About such figures as Rothstein there grows up a legend, which, in spite of the trade plied by Rothstein, sets him up as a romantic figure. Yet such figures in the strange world they move in hold no romance for the men who deal with them—who bet with them.

It was only a few weeks before Rothstein was shot that a Pittsburgh gambler of some local reputation, and with a New York and Chicago connection, was asked what sort of man was Rothstein, who came into popular notice in connection with the crooked baseball series of 1919. The Pittsburgher said: "I'd call Rothstein a high-class hustler." (A hustler is the common term to denote a small racketeer). "He," continued the informant, "has loads of money. He operates on a big scale. But his millions make him no different than the small-time hustler."

THE informant then elaborated on how big men, with a flair for gambling, are "taken." They are allowed to win for a time until the time is ripe for the big killing. Women play a part in the scheme, too. And now and then blackmail is introduced. The informant, who has gambled big money here and in the East, had no illusions about romantic gamblers. In fact, we should say he had no illusions about anything. His realism about life would make Sinclair Lewis appear a giddy sentimentalist.

Still, about the person of a sizeable stature, there is to many of us in conventional pursuits a certain glamour. Since the days of Pittsburgh Phil, Pittsburgh, like many other cities, has had its quota of men who wager.

BIG stakes have been on the table in Pittsburgh, too. The late Harry Greb once lost $8,000 in a game of casino. More recently than that there was a pinochle game in a hotel where the winnings of one man totaled $80,000. One man "went" in that game for a $20,000 chunk, as the boys say.

* * *

One big Pittsburgh player in the last season or so went flat on baseball. He opposed a particular bettor who couldn't go wrong over a long period. Another story is that another well-known plunger suffered the sensation a month or so ago of having a man "welch" on a $10,000 gambling debt.

ABOUT such big fish are schools of lesser ones in the wagering stream. Most of them have better educations than you get in books. They know human nature. Nearly always they are interesting conversationalists on many subjects. And they all would say to you: "Don't gamble."

LOSES $4,625 IN BUNCO GAME

Mrs. Mary Sarsko, divorcee of Library, paid $4,625 to a stranger, who was friendly with her daughter, in exchange for a chemical formula he guaranteed would produce real money in any denomination desired.

The glib-tongued "salesman" used a soup dish, specially prepared strips of white paper and a chemical preparation which printed the bills in much the same manner as photographs are made.

Mrs. Sarsko tried the formula. It didn't work, so she appealed to county detectives to help her search for the salesman. Mrs. Sarsko and her daughter, Mary, 14, spent yesterday looking through the rogue's gallery at the county detective bureau in the hope of identifying the missing "green goods man."

HUSBAND LOSES DIVORCE

Judge Thomas J. Ford, of Common Pleas Court dismissed the divorce case of D. H. Beach, 2021 Howard street, against Esther Beach, whom her husband had charged with misconduct, on the grounds that the testimony had not been filed.

Mrs. Beach contested her husband's suit and denied that she had been indiscreet as her husband had accused her. Beach, according to Attorney George P. Henning, of counsel for the respondent, was to have produced further testimony but failed to do so. Attorney Henning avers that Beach did not sustain his accusations. The suit was instituted December 4, 1925, and tried January 6, 1927, and has been hanging fire ever since. Beach was represented in the proceedings by Hazlett, Gardner & Gannon.

They said that for the past two weeks more singing than ever was noticed and was reported from the first floor, and it was ascertained from prisoners who refused to escape that this was the means taken to cover the noise of saws being used to cut out both inside and outside bars. The escaping prisoners cut the bar from a bunk with which they pried out sections that had been replaced after last years escape. ## SOUTH HILLS MOTORISTS PROTEST SAFETY ZONES

South Hills motorists, especially those who have occasion to pass through Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, are up in arms over the new safety zones recently installed in those communities.

While the motorists in general are in favor of safety zones, which they see as a protection to both themselves and persons alighting and getting onto the trolley cars, they contend that the ones installed in these districts are of such a nature as to make them dangerous both to the motorist and pedestrian.

It is held that the zones are so constructed that one of the posts marking the boundaries is placed well out into the street and that an autoist unfamiliar to the district is endangered by running into this post before he sees it. It also is held that parking cars is common alongside of these zones and in such instances it is necessary to make a sharp angle to enter the protected district.

Furthermore, it is contended that the lighting of the zones at night is inadequate, as old-style lanterns are used for this purpose. In several instances these lanterns, through interference, have gone out, thus leaving the posts unprotected.

Several accidents already have occurred in these zones, and motorists in general are making an appeal for relief. Among suggestions made are that parking be not permitted alongside any of the zones; that a lighting system that can be relied on at all times be installed and that steps be taken to guard the post which it is held obstructs and makes dangerous vehicular traffic.

An appeal already has been made to the borough officials at Dormont and it is said a similar remonstrance will be made in Mt. Lebanon. In Dormont the matter is now under consideration, but no definite conclusions as to changes to be made, if any, have been arrived at.

His wife served his meals on the cellar steps, asserting that he was not good enough for him to eat at the same table with her, so Carl W. Carlson, 2210 Carson street, wants a divorce from Ida W. Carlson.

In giving his testimony before Judge Thomas J. Ford the libellant testified that his wife was always belittling him in the presence of others. Carlson said he lost his left leg in a mill accident, having been burned so badly the leg had to be amputated. His wife told him, according to his story to the court, that it was a pity the Lord did not take him when the accident happened. She accused him of being no good. According to Carlson his wife's disposition was such that he could never satisfy her about anything. She always spoke of his crippled leg in a derisive manner.

He is alleged to have slipped Patrolman William E. Kilpatrick $5 as the latter entered the store after he had seen a stream of men entering and leaving without apparently acquiring new luggage. Kilpatrick accepted the bill, he said, and then returned to the police station, where he made his report. He and Lieut. Fullerton then raided the store. ## Will Rogers in Early

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 15.

Ambassador Fletcher from Rome on his way to join Hoover's party was by to see me. You know I told you politicians that if Hoover was elected that he would just about fool you all by surrounding himself with a lot of able men.

Well he did it. This fellow knows all about South America. I would liked to have gone on that trip and believe I could have been pretty useful and taken a lot of unnecessary work off Mr. Hoover's shoulders.

I could have spoken at all the unimportant events, that is I would have been the luncheon club speaker.

It don't take very good speaking for that. That's the training table for after dinner speakers. Then he could have gone on at nights.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Curtis Leaves on a Trip to Forget Joan After She Tells Him of Her Past

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow, who immediately becomes interested in her. Bill comes home and discovers Joan is close at hand. He visits her and offers to marry her. Later he disappears after having an argument with his employer. Joan becomes engaged to Curtis. Joan constantly thinks of Bill and plans to break her engagement, but changes her mind. Curtis' mother arranges a dinner in honor of Joan and invites her Aunt Evvie, who disgraces her with her manners. Joan sets the date for her wedding and as the time goes on Curtis becomes bored with the many dinners and parties and asks her to elope with him, but she refuses. Joan tells Curtis about her old love affair with Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"BUT I can't think now. My head—all gone—I'll take you home. Tomorrow or the next day—"

So she let him drive her to Massie's door. She even let him give her back the ring. "I'd rather you would keep it if you don't mind. Wear it. Please do. People will wonder if you don't. We don't want them to do that—"

"But Curtis, you know it must come—we'll have to let people know, we can't go on this way—"

"Please—not now," he said dully. "I'm not sure yet what we ought to do. Please wait. Tomorrow—"

He turned and ran down the stairs, leaving her.

Brrrr . . . Brr . . .

Maisie stirred in her sleep.

Brr . . . Brr . . . Brr . . . Heavens, the alarm clock . . . she opened one eye reluctantly. Sun! Sun streaming right on to her bed! She'd overslept again. Darn that cheap clock, you couldn't depend on it. Must be nine o'clock, and Joan still asleep . . .

Her fat feet plumped into the pink satin mules Miss Harvey had given her for Christmas, she pulled the lavender corduroy robe around her generous figure and groped her way to the door.

Just one minute—to put the coffee on—and she was back at Joan's door. "Johnnie—get up this minute—I'm awfully sorry—I overslept—"

"Well," she sputtered, when she had opened the door, "what does it mean?"

Joan lay face downward on the bed, one limp hand dangling. She wore the thin dark dress she had worn the day before. The wind from the window stirred its folds faintly.

There was something about the way she was lying . . . something about the curve of her neck. . . .

Maisie stood teetering on the doorsill. Fascinated. Unable to go forward or back.

Another puff of wind lifted the thin dark stuff of the dress, but the girl did not move.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

MARIAN'S scream rose thin and curving, curving around the limp hand that dangled from the bed, curving into Joan's consciousness, bringing her back . . . back from the blackness in which she had floated all night, the timeless, peaceful blackness, in which there were no thoughts, no memories, no tears . . . nothing . . . "My God," Maisie panted. "I thought—I thought for a minute—"

Her warm hands were on Joan's cold shoulders, lifting them. "You've given me an awful turn, lying there so quiet, with all your things on . . . Johnnie . . . tell me . . . something happened! Tell Maisie!"

And then in a high, scolding voice she cried, "You haven't gone and broke your engagement, you foolish girl!"

Joan held out her hand, the limp blue hand on which Curtis's ring still blazed, brightly in the sun.

"Well, then, if nothing's happened, I think you're a mighty silly girl, lying on top of your bed all night with your clothes on, catching your death of cold . . . Now you go take a warm bath an' a good cold shower, an' I'll have breakfast ready . . . of all the foolishness I ever did see . . . givin' me a turn like that . . ."

"You'd better phone Fanny," she said, still in the brusque, scolding tone she used to cover her emotion, "an' tell her I overslept, and you're going to be good and late."

"Yes," Joan said docilely.

But it was Curtis' number she called when Maizie had gone bustling down the back stairs to complain about the garbage again.

"Curtis, this is Joan. I'm sorry if I disturbed you . . . I just remembered that it is the Cunningham's dinner dance tonight. Could you tell them I'm ill, please, Curtis? . . . Oh no, no—please don't ask me—I couldn't face them—I couldn't . . . All right, if you think it is best . . . Yes, I'll manage, somehow."

So she had to go, because people would think it queer if she didn't.

The orchestra was playing when they came in. Joan and Curtis together, for the last time, surely for the last time . . . he wouldn't expect her to do it again . . .

"Curtis is off his oats tonight," Eugenia said.

Mollie Davis looked and laughed. "Look at him mooning at the Hastings girl. If you ask me, she carries that Lily Maid of Astolat stuff too far. She looks like something washed up by the tide—"

"Mollie!"

"Well, she does. Did you ever see anything like the way he keeps looking at her! He hasn't taken his eyes off her once all evening."

Mollie was right, he hadn't.

He couldn't. When he took her hand to dance with her it burned him coldly, like ice. He was repelled and attracted and torn a dozen ways at once. He saw her white beauty, clear and clean and virginal. Her pathetic childish lips, scarlet in the white of her face. Her deep gray-green eyes, the color of troubled waters, half hidden by the long golden lashes, just deeper than the gold of her hair. Her dear, curly hair that glinted like a halo, a halo of goodness . . .

"She is good," he thought, "she is! She couldn't look that way and not be . . . no matter what she did . . . what tragic pitiful mistake of the past . . ."

And then he'd see her dancing, someone else's arms about her. Someone holding her close, someone whispering to her, loving her perhaps . . . Good God—what if that were the man . . . it might be . . . It might be someone he met every day of his life . . . someone who would take his hand and congratulate him, with his tongue in his cheek. "Lucky boy, Barstow!" Lucky boy—getting my leavings . . .

He'd wipe his damp forehead . . . that couldn't go on. Impossible to go through life, wondering that way. Better never to see her again.

Never to see her . . . to let her go forever? Joan with the skin like velvet, the sweet red lips . . . Impossible to leave her . . . to give her up now . . . with the wedding date set and the plans all made.

"I'm going crazy!—Crazy!" he thought desperately.

And when the gaiety was at its height, when flasks were half emptied and the music was mounting to its height of abandon, when she was dancing, laughingly, with Bert Cunningham, he brought her her coat.

"For heaven's sake, let us get out of here," he said.

Lyla Barstow set down her teacup with a little tinkling sound. "But he must have said something," she said. "It isn't like Curtis to go off without a word!"

"No, he didn't. I didn't see him at all," Joan repeated dully. She had been repeating it for half an hour, but still the inquisition went on.

"Yes, he wouldn't have gone all the way to Seattle to finish that case alone. Mr. Kennedy himself said it wasn't necessary. He didn't know why Curtis went, and I'm sure I can't understand it. Why should he get on the train so suddenly, and take that long miserable trip when a few telegrams or even a telephone conversation would have done as well?"

"I don't know, Mrs. Barstow."

"He wouldn't have gone off that way without some reason. You are sure you didn't quarrel, Joan?"

"No, we didn't quarrel."

"Not that there would be any excuse for quarreling with Curtis. There never was anyone so easy to get along with as he, Joan. I don't want to hurt you, but have you understood Curtis? He hasn't been himself since—since the engagement. My dear, do you think you will make him happy? Wouldn't it be better—"

Joan just twisted her handkerchief in her hands.

"You see what I mean. If you can't get along, surely it is better to admit it now. Much as I'd hate to see it broken off—"

The next day she began all over again, telephoning to Joan bright and early, at the shop. "Joan? This is Mrs. Barstow. You haven't heard from Curtis? I can't understand it. I'm wiring Baker's in Seattle. I don't know why he doesn't write—"

Baker's reported briefly and collect that Mr. Barstow had not as yet called at their office.

Curtis had no intention of calling at Baker's. He simply went because he had to go somewhere, and it was the first place that occurred to him. He had to get away from Joan and San Francisco. Had to get away to think . . .

ADMIRERS! DON'T BE YOUR OWN -:-

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

©1928 by Int'l Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

AREN'T there enough admirers for you in the world without your becoming a feminine Narcissus? And besides, it's so tactless of you. Even though you are the loveliest thing that ever walked the face of the earth, why not let others do the admiring?

Really, I think if you'd do this all the things that your little heart desires would come to you so much more quickly. Because if you are an admirer of your very own self, you're bound to be selfish, and that's no way to court Love and Happiness!

Of course, I don't mean that you don't ever, ever look at yourself—that would be too foolish! But in the looking don't think of yourself all the time. And, too, don't be ever thinking of the effect you're going to have on others. That's selfishness! And vanity!

There's some excuse for the girl who is in love, and takes particular pains that she ever looks at her best when she's near the Beloved! But, don't do it just for that and that alone! Don't admire yourself thinking it will bring you admiration from others, for it won't!

Cultivate your loveliness to the extent that you forget all about it—and you'll never lack admirers and Love! For they'll come flocking to your side!

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man—and His Game

I LOVE to watch men at play—they take it so seriously. I love to watch them at work—they take it so lightly. If men took their work or marriage one-half as seriously as they take their favorite games, every one of them would be a financial or professional genius and a matrimonial prize.

The average man works half-heartedly—but he plays with his whole soul.

Most of his much-vaunted "worry about business" is merely worry for fear he won't get away from the office in time for his golf.

HELEN ROWLAND

He will sign a marriage certificate without reading it over and send out an important business letter "dictated but not read," but he examines his brassie very carefully before using it.

He will spend far more time and use far more judgment in picking out a set of golf clubs or a tennis racket than in selecting a wife.

He will sit up all night trying to "get even" in a poker game; but after 9 o'clock he will despairingly give up trying to solve a knotty problem for the firm. And he will fall right asleep in the middle of the most exciting domestic argument.

If he would spend half the time in studying his wife's idiosyncrasies that he does in trying to find out what's the matter with his motor car, matrimonial smash-ups would be practically negligible.

If he showed half the enthusiasm in putting over a business deal that he does in watching his favorite baseball player make a home run, business would be more of a game and less of a grind.

As long as his job and his wife amuse him, a man will devote himself to them; but the moment the novelty wears off, the moment either becomes an old story, he is back at his game again.

* * *

Every man is a born playboy. And the women who holds him is not the one who impresses him, fascinates him or inspires him—but the one who eternally keeps him amused.

It is not half so often a difference of taste in jokes, in work, in literature or in religion that separates a husband and wife as a difference of taste in sports.

* * *

It is not the hours they work together, but the hours they play together that holds them to each other.

* * *

A woman lives for love or duty or vanity—a man lives for his amusements; and unless they can find some vital mutual interest they will never meet on any common plane this side of the burying-ground.

For the Lovelorn

Popular

DEAR MISS GALE:

We are two girls in our teens. We are considered nice looking and are popular with both boys and girls. We have decided to come to you for advice on this problem: At a dance the other night we saw a fellow whom we would like to meet. As we are not on speaking terms with the girl who knows him, we do not know how to get acquainted. Is it necessary to have an introduction?

Some tell us we are too young to go out with fellows, but we do not agree. We don't agree with you on the smoking, drinking and petting question, as we find no harm in them. We hope to see it in print soon, as we are perplexed. We are

POPULAR.

Certainly an introduction is necessary. Perhaps some of the boys you know could introduce him to you. I am very sorry you disagree with me concerning these things. You will know better some day.

Blue Eyes

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl 16 years of age and would like to have some of your advice. I have a boy friend whom I like very much and know that he likes me, as he has often told me so. I know I am sort of young to have a boy friend, but when you like him you cannot help it. We are mad now and he wants to make up, but he wants me to make up first. He is very attractive and nearly all of the girl friends I go with like him. He has a brother (H.) and he likes me and I like him, but I like his brother the best, which is B. When H. stands anad talks to me B. gets mad and that is why we are mad. He is so jealous of me that I cannot talk to anybody unless it is to girls. So what would you do, go with his brother or make up and just be a friend? Hoping to see this in print, I am

BLUE EYES.

This boy has no right to dictate your actions, my dear, so pay no attention to his jealousies. I quite agree with you that you are too young to be thinking so much about boys.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Social Faux Pas

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A girl friend of mine became engaged and wanted me to meet her fiance, so she invited me to go to a lecture with them. I was told to meet her in front of the church. When I got there I found that her fiance had bought their tickets. He had gone inside and taken a seat and she waited for me and directed me to the ticket office. The ticket was only $1.10, so please don't think it is the money—it is the principle I care about.

A said that if the boy had any respect for the girl he would have bought the ticket, and if he didn't she should have bought it. B said that I should tell her about it and have nothing more to do with her, as she didn't consider my feelings.

He happens to be a college boy, and if he has no culture, who then? He did not offer to escort me home.

Please be liberal with your opinion, as it means a great deal to me, as she pretends to be a friend of mine and is critical when it comes to other people.

B. D.

I THINK that during the entire evening you were treated very shabbily and ungraciously. Since they invited you to go to the lecture with them, they should, of course, have bought your ticket. If he didn't have manners and generosity enough to buy it, then she should have bought it. For him to go inside and take a seat while she waited to "point out the box office to you was a terrible breach of manners. And then for the man not to see that you were escorted home—well, the whole proceeding was extremly rude, and it is no wonder that you are hurt.

I don't know what you can do about this sort of thing. I would never in the world suggest that you talk it over with her, or that you reprove her for it. I don't believe in that sort of thing, for words can't do any good when people are as blind as this to the decent thing to do.

Let me put you straight on one thing, dear B. D.—and that is that the fact that he is a college boy means less than nothing as far as manners are concerned. The fact that he is in college may mean that he is given an opportunity for a few more social contacts, but this doesn't have to be true. A person is mannerly or not, according to the state of his or her spirit, according to whether he or she wishes to be, according to whether he or she is willing to discriminate between rudeness and politeness, between kindness and unkindness to other people. College makes no difference. You are either born with manners, or you acquire them. The world won't give them to you, if your eyes, your spiritual eyes are closed. And the eyes of this young man of whom you wrote are as closed as those of a new-born kitten.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Clouds Gather Over the Underwood and Graham Families

I STOOD still in the center of Dicky's room, with the sound of the door he had slammed still sounding in my ears. So this was the result of our first difference of opinion since we had pledged each other to "pick up the pieces" of our shattered happiness, and try to tune our jangled bells into harmony! A muttered oath, a slammed door, hot anger in Dicky's heart—and in mine? I was not sure whether wrath, tears or laughter was the chief emotion swaying me, but that all three were present in my soul I was sure.

There had been a time when a scene like the one I had just experienced would have sent me to bed for hours with a nervous headache. But years of marriage with a man of Dicky's temperament—and temper—are an effective shock absorber, and my first resentment at his outrageous introduction of Philip Veritzen's name as an issue in our disagreement merged itself into mirth at the recollection of his childish outburst almost before the sound of another door—an outer one—closing, told me that Dicky had flung himself out of the house. That he would exercise his anger in some form of violent activity I was sure, and wondered whether his horse or his motor car would serve as the outlet for his anger.

A sudden mirthful realization that I was in his room effectually preventing his taking sanctuary there, sent me hurrying out of it. There was no one in sight in the hall, but as I passed the door of Marion's room, I saw that it was slightly ajar, and I had gone but a few steps beyond it when the soft voice of Lillian's young daughter called to me:

"Auntie Madge! Have you a minute for me?"

"Any number of them," I replied, turning back immediately. Indeed, I welcomed the interruption. Whatever Marion wished of me, it would help me to drive from my mind the memory of the unpleasant scene in which I had been a participant.

She drew me into her room with hands which I discovered at once were cold and shaking. I looked sharply at her and saw that her lovely color was gone, and her eyes filled with pain and bewilderment. Despite my loving sympathy for her, a muffled warning sounded deep in my consciousness, and I was suddenly, defensively alert. If her summons meant an appeal to me for sympathy in her silent rebellion against her stepfather's return, I must be careful to say no word which she could interpret as criticism of Harry Underwood. On the other hand I must not antagonize her by defending him too warmly.

I had the curious sense of facing a stranger, as with mannerisms uncannily like her mother's she drew forward a chair, put me into it and sat down herself in one facing me. Surely this young girl, as tall as I, with some strong emotion giving her face and eyes a pathetic maturity, could not be the laughing, merry child who, during the years of my friendship with her mother, had been as dear to me as if she were my own blood.

"Auntie Madge," she began with a little catch in her voice which betrayed how near she was to tears, "you do love me, don't you?"

"Very much, Marion," I returned.

"I want to tell you a secret," she raced on, "and give you something to keep for me until I come back from school."

"Do you mean," I asked slowly, "that it is a secret which your mother does not know, and which you wish me to keep from her?"

For answer she burst into stormy weeping.

"My mother isn't my mother first of all any more," she sobbed. "She's that man's wife. He comes before everybody."

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Treating Intestinal Tuberculosis

A CHICAGO reader says she will appreciate an article on intestinal tuberculosis. She thinks that many beside herself would be grateful for information on this subject.

DR. COPELAND

Perhaps the most cheering thing in the history of medicine is what has been accomplished in tuberculosis. This disease is becoming less and less prevalent. By teaching the public how to live, the powers of resistance of the average individual have been increased tremendously. The result is that tubercular infections are less common by a good deal than they were only a few years ago.

Tuberculosis may attack any one of the organs, or any part of the body. The intestines are no exception. It is rather interesting to recall that many cases of tubercular infection must take place through the digestive tract. Infected milk is taken into the stomach and from the digestive organs the tubercular infection takes place.

It is rare, however, for the disease to spend its force in the intestines. Yet, of course, the lining membrane may become locally involved and produce a multitude of local symptoms.

When there is a tubercular infection of the intestinal tract, diarrhea is the most common symptom. This makes the case difficult to handle because the feeding of the patient with tuberculosis is an important part of the treatment. In this disease it is necessary to build up the health and the resistance of the body. If the digestive organs are out of order, the forced feeding which we depend upon in overcoming the disease cannot be practiced. Consequently, it is an embarrassing ailment to handle.

If there is emaciation, loss of strength, fever and great prostration, the patient must be put to bed. Absolute quiet is essential.

In any form of tuberculosis, however, it is vital to have an abundance of fresh air. Day and night this must be provided. We are not doing our duty in the care of these cases unless this important factor is kept constantly in mind. There is no medicine in the world superior to fresh air.

When we sum up the treatment of tuberculosis, whether it is in the intestinal form or whether it attacks the lungs, we find that in fresh air, milk and eggs, we are dealing with the essential factors of cure.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. Q.—Several times a day and also at night a terrible hot sensation comes over me from the waistline up. It lasts about five minutes and leaves no after-effects, nor do I perspire.

A.—Probably due to a circulatory disturbance or nervousness. Improve the health in general and see whether or not the symptoms clear up.

C. R. Q.—What do you advice for catarrh?

2. What causes dreaming?

A.—This requires special treatment. A nose and throat spray is helpful.

2.—Some intestinal disturbance is usually to blame for this condition. You may overcome this by eating correctly and getting the proper amount of sleep.

N. E. V. P. Q.—What is the cause of a bad breath?

A.—This condition may be due to constipation, indigestion, nasal catarrh, decayed teeth or diseased tonsils.

C. T. Q.—What causes rattling noises in the stomach and what will correct the trouble?

A.—Probably due to gases. Watch your diet and avoid constipation.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, November 16

JUDGING by the conflicting positions of important planets this may be a day of contradictions and cross purposes. While the Major Benefic, Jupiter, wields a happy and prospering influence and may promote and expand business and the finances, yet there is a sign of clamor, turmoil and of generally irresponsible and erratic situations and occurrences. Sudden and abrupt change may attend this disintegrating force, possibly incited by rash and impulsive conduct.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a conflicting and complicated year, with some benefits and honors, but with sudden upheavals and disturbances contributed to by rash and ill-considered moods and impulsive moves.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and noble in many ways, but at the same time may defeat itself by impetuosity, reckless and eccentric conduct.

BUGS BAER Says

WHEN a girl wants an engagement ring she doesn't mean a piece of glass.

She wants a diamond that will sparkle in the dark like a leopard's freckles.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Generally, her boy friend steps off the wharf and bobs up with an instalment diamond that ain't heavy enough to sink in clear consomme.

That's why they wear 'em on their third fingers when they would rather have one that they couldn't carry in both hands.

The reason why so many romances go on the rocks is because the rocks aren't big enough.

So it's good news to hear that they have discovered a field in South Africa where the diamonds are as thick as flies on a jelly roll.

The expensive ice is bouncing around on the ground like pebbles on a beach. We have already told you about the lady who wore so many off-color diamonds that her friends called her Yellowstone Park.

The diamond market is controlled by America. Even if the prices are not reduced we know the payments will be smaller and quicker.

A million dollar necklace is the happiest way we know of getting round shouldered.

If you knew how joyful a girl feels when she looks at that 18-karat traffic light on her left hand you would take the next boat for South Africa and come back with a tub full of glittering buttons.

Peggy Joyce and Mabel Boll have had that sister act to themselves long enough.

Now, that slave bracelets are popular there are millions of girls who would like to get into the chain gang and crack themselves some sparkling rocks.

It's up to the government to throw that new diamond field open to the public and let us pick up a couple of new lamps for the car.

We ain't stingy. If there aren't enough big diamonds to go around we will be satisfied to use a ruby for a tail-light.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and relieve grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

(Advertisement.)

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Just Rub Away Danger

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

FANS WANT WCAE BACK ON OLD WAVELENGTH

VOICE DISSATISFACTION ON REALLOCATION PLAN

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

TODAY'S best joke: "I heard WCAE last night without any trouble."

With four days of experimenting completed, Pittsburgh fans have about decided that lots of things can be done to better the new wave assignments throughout the country, and particularly in this city. WCAE and WJAS are entirely too close and must be separated, they declared in letters to the Sun-Telegraph, which will be forwarded to the Federal Radio Commission at Washington.

The extent of the protests reached a new dimension yesterday with listeners sending petitions to WCAE and duplicates to the commissioners. "We want WCAE back on its old wave length," was the gist of the demands.

Something ought to be done. It is clearly definable now that WCAE and WJAS can never be so close together.

KDKA is high enough to be heard fine. There are no complaints about KDKA. And KQV is low enough to be in a channel all its own. WJAS is satisfied on 232.4 meters, but listeners declare positively that WCAE on 245.8 meters is too close to WJAS.

ONE PLAN

It appears that the best way to remedy the situation is to put WCAE back on its old wave length, now being used exclusively by WSM. If this is done the Pittsburgh stations will be almost evenly distributed on the dials. Tuning will be easier and interference will be eliminated. WSM is not being heard in Pittsburgh as clearly as usual, according to M. T. S. Orner, 842 Madison avenue, Bellevue.

WJAS was to go on 1,000 watts last night, but due to a few minor alterations this station will not use its new power until Saturday or Sunday.

Stations which formerly came in Pittsburgh with clarity are not being heard so well. These include WIBO, KSTP, WPG, WHK, WHT, KMOX, WCBD, WJAZ, WRNY, KOA, WWVA, WCCO, WKBW, KWKH, WJR, WTFF, PWX, KFAB, KOIL, WLAG. The stations are too close. WSB, an old favorite of Pittsburgh fans, has been lost in the jungles.

These stations are hard to tune in, but come through fairly well: WHAS, WJZ, WTAM, WLW, WLS, WGY, CNRO, KFI, WBZ, WBAL, WRVA, KYW.

Send your comments to the Radio Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. They will be forwarded to the Federal Radio Commission.

Three musical celebrities will take part in programs to be broadcast over Pittsburgh stations tonight.

Henry Burr, tenor, will be heard in the Maxwell Hour over KDKA at 9:30 o'clock. At 9 p. m. Dr. Charles Heinroth, director of music, Carnegie Institute, will speak on "Schubert, a Young Centenarian."

Ruth Breton, violinist, will play a solo in the Sonora Hour over WJAS at 9 o'clock.

Mildred Hunt, contralto, will sing "Marie," Irving Berlin's latest, during the Song Shop period at 8 p. m. over WCAE. An all Berlin program will be offered. Selections include his first number, "Marie from Sunny Italy," and "Alexander's Rag Time Band," "When That Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabam'," "All Alone," "Crinoline Days," "Always."

M. Paul Poiret, creator of French styles for women, will speak on the Lehn & Fink program over KDKA at 8 o'clock.

Other features are listed in detail as follows:

How long have your tubes been in use?
To maintain volume and distance your radio receiver needs a brand new set of RCA Radiotrons at least once a year. Any old tubes left in with the new ones lower their efficiency.

Tale of Player Who Made Debut Here and Notes About Attractions

SHEIK OF "THE DESERT SONG" LIKES MILAN SPAGHETTI; MADE DEBUT HERE

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

HE looks like an Arab sheik, and he plays an Arab sheik in "The Desert Song" in the Alvin Theater, but John Philip Ryder is really a good Pennsylvania boy who was born in Sunbury, near Harrisburg, and spent four years of his youth in Pittsburgh working for the Westinghouse Company.

Mr. Ryder, whose virile and resonant baritone lends monumental dignity to his impersonation of Ali Ben Ali, even made his stage debut here—in "Floradora" of ancient memory. His second debut, in real opera, he made in Italy, the land of opera, singing Escamillo in "Carmen." He studied for several years in Milan, where the Scala Theater has attracted so many operatic aspirants, under Commendatore Oscar Anselmo. Anselmo became famous by proxy when Hammerstein, the first brought Madame Tetrazzini to America, and she would not come unless her maestro also was brought along. So Hammerstein had to import both of them.

Spinach Juice Not Paris Green

MILAN is a city of dreams, Mr. Ryder says. Aside from the magnificent Cathedral and Leonardo da Vinci's "Last Supper," it is famous for green spaghetti. "A delicate dish," says Mr. Ryder, "though it looks deadly." It is really very harmless, being colored with nothing stronger than spinach juice. But the newcomer eyes it with suspicion, as if it had been cooked by Lucrezia Borgia and had been flavored with paris green.

Besides consuming quantities of its green spaghetti, Mr. Ryder also had the pleasure of seeing himself in the movies at Milan. He had appeared with Florence Vidor in a picture called "The Great Romance." He had never seen the picture until one day, walking along the promenade, he saw it announced in one of the theaters. So he had to go to Italy to see his own moving picture.

Business Offer For Anton Lang

MILAN is only 25 miles from Lake Como, which Mr. Ryder thinks is the most beautiful spot in Italy. Here he got a grand thrill by meeting some smugglers who took him for Anton Lang, the Oberammergau Christ actor. He had let his hair and beard grow because he was to appear in the role of John the Baptist in a new drama, and there was some resemblance to the current pictures of Lang, whom the smugglers had never seen. At any rate they wanted him to accompany them on their expedition, thinking his presence would bring them good luck and sanctify their illegal trade. He declined to become a smuggler.

And now he's an Arab sheik in "The Desert Song." In this part, also, he has let his beard grow—and he looks like a real enough son of the desert. If he carried a Koran under his coat, he might pass as a missionary from Mecca. But he's only a Pennsylvania boy, born in Sunbury, who made his debut in Pittsburgh.

MACLEAN IS CAUGHT NAPPING AND LOSES $150,000 AND SUE CAROL

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 14.

HOLLYWOOD is buzzing with the story that Douglas MacLean neglected to exercise his option on the contract he held with Sue Carol, and that Sue, having gained her freedom through this oversight, immediately signed up with Fox. Her first appearance under the Fox banner will be as star of the first edition of the "Fox Follies."

MacLean's contract with Sue called for her services over a period of five years, and had three and a half years still to go. The actress is been "rented out" to different studios at prices in advance of her salary figure, and naturally MacLean has pocketed the difference. It is said that the figure he demanded for Sue's contract was $150,000. So if the story of his negligence is true, it cost him somewhere in that vicinity.

Another Broadway stage player has arrived in town to star in the movies. She is Lee Patrick, fresh from an appearance in "The Common Sin," and before that well known along New York's Rialto for her work in "Nightstick," "A Kiss in a Taxi" and other shows. Now she has been signed for her very first screen endeavor by Pathe, and cast as the feminine lead in that organization's first all-audible photoplay, "The Missing Man." Aparently Lee isn't a bit superstitious, for she doesn't in the least mind being the thirteenth player signed for the mystery film. By coincidence her first stage play was also a mystery story entitled "The Green Beetle." Sally Eilers was to have had the lead, but Lee Patrick was signed in New York and came to Hollywood and was given the part.

Rod La Rocque in Billie Dove Film

THE man in First National's picture "The Man and the Moment," is going to be Rod La Rocque. It seems Rod thought better of his threats to retire from the screen, and his further threats to accompany Mrs. La Rocque, sometimes called Vilma Banky, to New York. For when an opportunity presented itself for him to play opposite Billie Dove in a picturization of Elinor Glyn's story, he promptly accepted it. The combination of Billie and Mme. Glyn were too much for him. But we can't blame him for that! George Fitzmaurice, one of the highest paid directors in movieland, will direct Rod and Billie in the production, which goes into work shortly.

Norma Talmadge will return from her visit to sister Constance in Europe in time to celebrate Thanksgiving Day at home in Hollywood. Before the end of the month it is expected that the story for her next picture will be in readiness and shooting will start the first part of December. Although Constance is busy with her foreign-made picture, she has found time to be with her sister, and both have enjoyed the stay on the Riviera.

Wallace Beery, Powell Co-Star

JUST as soon as William Powell, the deep and dirty "menace" of a hundred Paramount photodramas, completes his role in "Four Fathers," he will be co-starred with Wallace Beery in a 100 per cent talking picture based on a Chinese story, or at least a story dealing with the Orient and Orientals. Speaking of "Four Fathers," they are beginning to talk about this picture in all the many spots where pictures form the main topic of conversation. The shots secured by Schoedsack and Cooper in the African wilds have been combined and blended with sequences taken in the studio in a way to make a really wonderful picture. Keep it in mind for future reference.

James "Shannons" Gleason walks about Hollywood laughing to himself these days. The reason being that he appreciates a good joke even when it is his own, and some of the things he has thought up for the dialogue in Marion Davies' new film, "The Five O'Clock Girl," are enough to make anyone giggle. However, Jimmy hasn't much of an edge on you, for it won't be long before you'll be able to share in his mirth. The picture is almost ready for production now. It will be Marion Davies' first audible photoplay.

STAGE, FILMS TO OFFER VARIETY

Arthur Hammerstein will bring again to the Alvin, next Monday, his newest operetta, "Golden Dawn," said to be his most lavish and ambitious effort. The story, which has to do with tropical Africa, is by the authors of "Rose Marie," Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein, II. The music is by Emerich Kalman and Herbert Stothart.

Seats are on sale today for Vincent Youmans's musical comedy, "Hit the Deck," next week in the Nixon, with the original New York cast, headed by Queenie Smith and Charles Purcell, in a company of 75.

Katharine Cornell comes to the Pitt next week in a new play, "The Age of Innocence," which is a dramatization of Edith Wharton's novel of that name. Seats go on sale today for the entire week. The story shows the narrowness and the provincial character of New York society half a century ago.

"The Foreign Legion," Universal's screen adaptation of "The Red Mirage," I. A. R. Wylie's novel, will be the feature picture in the Davis next week. "Cheaters Inn," with Harry Allard, will head six acts of Keith-Albee vaudeville.

Almost every one in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio is in "Show People," starring Marion Davies and William Haines on the Penn screen next week. Lon Chaney, John Gilbert, Polly Moran, Paul Kalli, Mae Murray, Renee Adoree and others appear "back-stage."

The stage version of "Lilac Time," which is the Gayety Players' next attraction, has its heart pang in a lieutenant leaving his sweetheart.

Richard Bennett and Doris Kenyon will be seen in the Warner Brothers' all-talking Vitaphone feature, "The Home Towners," adapted from the play of George M. Cohan, in the Stanley next week.

Universal's first all-talking picture, "The Melody of Love," will be the feature attraction in Loew's Aldine next week. The cast includes Mildred Harris, Jane Winton and Walter Pidgeon.

Vaudeville in the Harris the last half of this week will be topped by a farce, "Mistakes Will Happen." Hoot Gibson, in "The Danger Rider," is the screen feature.

Ruth Elder is seen in her first motion picture role opposite Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marines," which will be shown in the Liberty next week.

The Paramount screen version of Anne Nichols' famous stage hit, "Abie's Irish Rose," which has sound effects, will be shown in the Grand next week. Charles Rogers, Nancy Carroll and Jean Hersholt have the leading roles.

May Leona is a featured player in "Kuddling Kuties," next week's burlesque in the Academy.

Eugene O'Brien, famous screen star, will appear in person at the Sheridan Square Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Bebe Daniels, in "Take Me Home," will be the screen feature.

BRINGING ILLUSION :-: TO PLAYHOUSES :-: IN NEW PROGRAMS

Marion Davies plays a girl seeking a movie career in "Show People," comedy to be on Penn screen next week.

Katharine Cornell will bring to the stage of the Pitt next week a new play, "The Age of Innocence," based on the novel.

Bonnie Emerie is the prima donna of "Golden Dawn," operetta returning next week to the Alvin after a long New York run, which followed a successful Pittsburgh debut.

Queenie Smith comes back to the Nixon Monday in "Hit the Deck," pleasing musical comedy.

Philharmonic Plays In Mosque Friday

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra of 91 players will give concerts Friday night and Saturday afternoon in Syria Mosque, under the baton of William Mengelberg. The symphony for tomorrow night is Berlioz's "Fantastic Symphony." Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" also is on the evening program. At the Saturday matinee the major work is to be Schubert's Symphony in C Major.

PIRATES OPEN ICE SEASON TONIGHT

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1928 — TWENTY-ONE

To Pry Off Lid in Hockey League at Duquesne Garden Tonight

Local Skaters, Leaders Set for Battle Against Bruins

HERE'S HOW BUCS WILL LINE UP FOR OPENER

Although the forward line is unchanged, two new faces will be found in the "backfield" when the hockey Pirates go into battle against the Bruins tonight. Joe Miller, former Pittsburgh amateur star, will be in the nets in place of Roy Worters, the holdout, and Toots Holway will be at the defense post vacated by Marty Burke. In the above picture is shown the starting lineup selected by Manager Odie Cleghorn.

MAKES DEBUT AS PROMOTER

As a contestant, Benny Leonard is the retired undefeated lightweight boxing champion of the world, but as a promoter he is a "preliminary boy" who makes his debut as a backer of sports events at Duquesne Garden tonight when his Pittsburgh Pirates meet the Boston Bruins in the National League's 1928-29 opening game. Confidence that he could "put across" hockey here prompted Leonard to buy the local franchise and players, and the expression he wears in the above picture indicates that his confidence has not been shaken.

PILOT OPTIMISTIC

Odie Cleghorn, playing a return engagement as manager of the Pirates, wears a smile of contentment, for he is confident his Bucs of today are stronger and better conditioned than any previous Pittsburgh team. Benny Leonard, new owner, gave Cleghorn three weeks in which to whip his men into shape, and Odie, combining gym work with ice scrimmage, has used every day to advantage. The Pirate pilot, knowing that he has done his best, is willing to "rest his case."

TARTANS DEPART TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

WITH Pitt already in Chicago, on its way to Lincoln, Neb., for its battle with the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday, Carnegie Tech is packing up preparatory to leaving from the P. & L. E. Station at 8:20 o'clock tonight, headed for South Bend, Ind., where, also on Saturday, the Plaid will attempt to break the winning streak of Notre Dame University on its home gridiron, which has extended over a period of 23 years.

The entire squad will make the trip, headed by Coach Bob Waddell, Graduate Manager Clarence Overend and Trainer Bert Munnall. Advisory Coach Walter P. Steffen will go over to South Bend from his home in Chicago Saturday morning to engage in another battle of wits with Knute Rockne, the Irish mentor.

Tech's headquarters in South Bend will be at the Oliver Hotel. Originally it had been planned to have the squad stop off in Chicago until Saturday morning, but the present arrangement will enable it to indulge in a workout on the Notre Dame Field tomorrow afternoon to accustom the players with conditions.

GAME IS SELLOUT

Cartier Field, where the game will be played, has a capacity of only about 30,000 and tickets are at a premium. Carnegie has been unable to get a sufficiently large quota to take care of its needs and many local fans who planned to make the trip will remain at home on this account. Hundreds of students, alumni and other followers of the Tartans will go in a special train leaving tomorrow night and many others will go in automobile parties.

The Plaid squad is in good trim for the battle, despite its hard tussle with Georgetown at Albany, N. Y., last Saturday, and the game

MAY BE ICE SPORT'S BEST SEASON

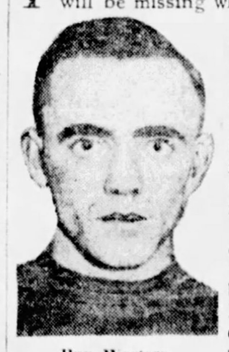
THOUGH the familiar face of Roy Worters, exiled goalie, will be missing when the Pirates take the ice against the Boston Bruins for the opening game of the hockey season at Duquesne Garden tonight, and the locals will in consequence be deprived of the services of a net guardian who unquestionably ranks with the best in the sport, the home fans nevertheless are warranted in feeling well satisfied with the prospects of Odie Cleghorn's skaters in the new professional championship race.



Roy Worters.

For there is ground for the confidence that the regretable loss of Worters, a star who would be missed by any team, as well as that of Marty Burke on the defense, will be largely offset by the strengthening of the team as a whole.

WITH Joe Miller to replace Worters, the vacant post at the net may be filled acceptably, and, besides, Miller is likely to get plenty of protection and help from his defense mates in view of the uncommon promise shown in practice by Toots Holway, the newcomer who is to be paired there with the always reliable Bert McCaffrey. In addition, the sextet has unquestionably been strengthened by the acquisition of such a sterling line performer as Mickey MacKay.

Aside from the playing qualities of the reorganized outfit, an item that contributes largely to the brightening of the outlook is the fact that the team will be operating under new ownership. For some reason or other, the best possible results were not always attained by the old regime, and the change to new owners of a liberal, ambitious and progressive type can hardly fail to improve the local hockey situation, assuring, as it does, a freer hand for Manager Cleghorn in the handling of the team and the working out of his ideas, and the betterment of conditions affecting the general morale of the team.

UNLESS present signs are misleading, professional hockey is destined to enjoy its greatest season in Pittsburgh and elsewhere. Interest in the game has grown rapidly and is still on the rise, with the result that heavy advance sales are reported from all parts of the circuits, season reservations are steadily becoming more numerous and everything points to a record-breaking campaign in attendance and receipts as well as in keen competition among the league clubs.

An indication of the flourishing state of the sport is to be seen in the fact that when the Detroit Olympics and the Windsor Bulldogs opened the Canadian Pro League season in Detroit the other night the game drew 13,000 persons, a larger crowd than any that ever attended even a National League contest in that city.

SOME remarks made by Herb McCracken, Lafayette coach, during a football discussion, led Bill Hanna, the veteran New York critic, to observe that outrushing the other team is a reckless waste of time and effort if accompanied by fumbles. McCracken narrated that Lafayette made the huge total of 45 first downs against the enemy's combined 14 in the Bucknell, West Virginia and Wash-Jeff games, yet did not win any of the three engagements, tying with Bucknell and W. & J. and losing to the Mountaineers. "But," added McCracken reflectively, "Lafayette made 18 fumbles in those three games."

IN CONNECTION with Lafayette's experiences, Hanna points out that this has been a fumbling season. Harper, of Harvard, fumbled against Penn, and put the Quakers on the way to the game's only touchdown; Hoben mishandled a kick and set the stage for Maryland's winning score against Yale, and Dallaire, of Fordham, fingered but failed to hold a punted ball and put the West Virginia scoring machine in motion.

Asked how he rated Carnegie Tech and New York U. among the other strong teams of the East, McCracken replied: "There is none better. They're as good as they come." Incidentally, Herb again says the rumor that he will go to Penn State to succeed Hugo Bezdek

ICE CLUBS SET FOR OPENERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—The clang of steel on ice, shrill yelps of forwards whipping the puck through the enemy defense, and the roar of the crowd, thrilled with the fastest, cleanest kind of sport action, will roll again tonight through the ice palaces round the National Professional hockey circuit.

The league season of 44 games for each of the 10 teams, swinging down through the winter and into the spring for the Stanley Cup playoff series and the crowning of a world champion, will open in three Canadian and two American cities. The world champion New York Rangers, conquerors of the Montreal Maroons in the last title series, swing into action in Detroit while the Boston Bruins, co-favorites of the American group, tackle Benny Leonard's Pirates in Pittsburgh.

The remainder of the teams clash above the Dominion border. Those deadly rivals and International Section favorites, Maroons and Canadiens, touch off the yearly frenzy in their home city of Montreal. The Ottawa Senators entertain the New York Americans and Chicago's Black Hawks, almost entirely rebuilt, furnish the opposition for a gala night at Toronto, home of the Maple Leafs.

RECORDS MAY GO

Looking ahead through rosy glasses on the third season of the organization as it stands today, officials of the league can see nothing but a trail of shattered records following the teams throughout the grind. They expect to see the record of 1,350,000 paid attendance last season surpassed by a mark that will approach 2,000,000 with correspondingly increased gate receipts and financial happiness for players and magnates.

Heretofore, the rivalry between the Maroons and Canadiens has given these two Montreal teams the leadership in attendance throughout the circuit. Last year 292,000 flocked to the Canadien rink while 281,000 saw the Montreal Maroons play on home ice. The opening of a new Madison Square Garden in

PANTHERS ARRIVE IN CHICAGO GOING WEST

By JESS CARVER, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—For the second time in history, a University of Pittsburgh football eleven is seeking to improve its fortunes here in the Middle West. The Panthers arrived in this city of bang-bang this morning en route to Lincoln, Neb., where they will tangle with the undefeated Cornhuskers Saturday.

This isn't the first time that a Pitt team has traveled into the land of the setting sun (poetic term). Last year Pitt stepped out to Des Moines, Ia., and kicked over Drake and after the season was ended, they hiked out to California to play Stanford in the annual Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena. In 1923, Pop Warner took his team to the Pacific coast for an intersectional, post-season game with the same team, then under the tutelage of Andy Kerr, now head coach at Wash-Jeff.

Pitt is scheduled for a workout today on Stagg Field, the home turf of the University of Chicago. After the drill, the boys will put on the nose bags and then board their Pullman's for Omaha, where they will stay until Saturday morning. Then they'll move on to Lincoln, ready for whatever may be in store there.

HUSKERS VENGEFUL

A rugged time is being prepared for Pitt in the Nebraska capitol. The Cornhuskers are undefeated, and in their last three games, have crushed two supposedly powerful sectional foes in Missouri and Oklahoma. Syracuse, Nebraska's only Eastern opponent held the vaunted Huskers to a close 7 to 6 score, and Pitt

MOTOR ROUTE TO SOUTH BEND

Motorists who are planning to attend the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame game at South Bend Saturday are advised by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh that they will find the following route in excellent condition throughout:

Leaving Pittsburgh use temporary U. S. highway No. 30 along the north side of the river through Bellevue and Ben Avon to Sewickley. From Sewickley follow the river road through to Ambridge; there turn left on Eleventh street and cross the river into Aliquippa. From this point the best road is through Monaca to Rochester where the temporary U. S. route No. 30, or Pennsylvania State Route No. 51, which is to be followed through Darlington to East Palestine. In Ohio, Ohio route 14, is taken through Columbiana to Salem, where Ohio Route 19 is picked up and followed through Alliance into Canton.

From Canton, continue directly

M'Cracken Kin Act on Slate For Saturday

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 15.—(AP.)—One brother will take a gleeful "crack" at another brother Saturday when the elevens of Penn State and Lafayette, bitter rivals, clash at Easton.

While they will not come into physical contact, Johnny McCracken, reserve quarterback of the Nittany Lions, who played half the game and scored two touchdowns against George Washington last Saturday, will get his chance indirectly to fell his older brother, Herb, coach of the Lafayette squad. Johnny already has added to the family discord by starring against Pittsburgh, where Herb gained fame years ago.

Jack Britton Wins; Has False Teeth Knocked Out

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Jack Britton, 43 years old, former world's welterweight champion, received an ovation from the Boston boxing public here last night when he decisively outpointed Larry Brignolia, rugged Cambridge youth, in 10 rounds. Britton, who showed all his old time ring skill, except for fast footwork, took every round by a wide margin.

Brignolia was seldom able to hit the old master. The youngster tried vainly to rush through Britton's guard and connect with a hook. In the third round, Brignolia caught Jack with a hard right hook and cut his lip. The force of the blow loosened some of Britton's bridge work and a second blow knocked a false tooth out of his mouth.

HUB SIX HERE FOR BATTLE AT GARDEN

By CARL W. SHATTO.

A NEW page in Pittsburgh hockey history will be turned at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 this evening when the Pirates and Boston Bruins pry the lid from the 1928-29 National League campaign and usher in the Leonard ice era.

And the Leonard era, born when the retired undefeated lightweight boxing champion purchased the local franchise and players a few weeks ago, gives promise of being an era of prosperity such as Pittsburgh has not known since the locals' advent into the National pro circuit.

Realizing that fandom regards the won and lost column as the best medium for measuring the success of any team, Leonard and Manager Odie Cleghorn have labored to their utmost to give Pittsburgh a club that will be a winner from the start. Gym work has been combined with daily ice scrimmages extending over a period of more than three weeks, and the result of the combination of drills is evident in the present perfect condition of the Pirate players. In a successful effort to promote harmony, Leonard gave a substantial increase to every Bue skater whose contract had expired, and he expects this harmony to grow into a strong fighting spirit in league competition.

The new Pirate owner is confident that the fans' appreciation of his players' success in battle will result in a corresponding success of his business venture, and the advance ticket sale for the opener indicates that his early efforts have won appreciation and that his logic is sound. The biggest crowd ever to witness a National League opener here is assured for tonight, and it may be that the demand for the hundreds of new popular-priced seats may result in a capacity attendance.

The same players who won an American Group championship for Boston last season accompanied Art Ross, Hub pilot, here today. The Bostonians arrived this morning, and, like the Bucs, they appear to be primed for the inaugural battle. The great strength of the Hub sextet has been proved in several bitter campaigns, and they are certain to extend Cleghorn's men to the utmost.

The only possible weakness in the Boston machine is in its lack of suitable spares to replace Hitchman and Shore at the defense posts should either of the veterans suffer injury. Frederickson at center and Galbraith and Oliver at the wings have capable understudies, but the defense giants probably will be called upon to remain in the fight from start to finish. And this looms as a real task, for Pittsburgh-Boston games have been bruising battles in which violent body checking played a major role.

Players who will make their debut as Bostonians tonight are Red Green, obtained from the New York Americans; Eddie Rodden, formerly with Chicago, and Cy Denneny, former Ottawa star.

U. S. F. A. OUSTS RADICAL PRO SUPPORTERS

By TOM BIRKS

THE announcement coming out of New York that the United States Football Association has suspended sine die, which practically means life suspension from organized soccer, Nather Agar, stormy petrel of the American Soccer League and owner of the Brooklyn Wanderers Soccer Club, together with Wilfred Hollywood, former member of the Southern New York Soccer Football Association, as the latest move in the soccer war that has raged incessantly since the annual convention at Milwaukee last June, did not occasion surprise among the soccerites all over the country who have followed the chess moves of the two bodies involved. And while local followers feel that Agar's suspension might help the game, they feel sorry that Hollywood has allowed himself to be dragged so far into the vortex in trying to help the professional element, so as to draw the sharp ban of the governing body to eliminate him from soccer football for all time.

REAL LEGISLATOR

Three years ago, the writer, sharing the same room for the final evening of the national convention at the Hotel Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia tried hard to dissuade Hollywood from aligning himself openly with the professional body down East, which, since its inception, has been a thorn in the side of the governing body. It could only have one end, for the open defiance of the professionals was fast becoming intolerable, and that end came Wednesday in New York, with the suspension. Wilfred Hollywood was one of the most able soccer legislators in the country, and as a prominent member of the Southern New York Football Association, was extremely well liked by Col. Randolph Manning, former president of the United States Football Association and chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. He could have practically worked his way to the highest position soccer can give in this land. But Hollywood, slowly, but surely, wrapped himself up fighting battles for the American Soccer League, and Agar's fall seemed sure.

Last June, while sitting on the shore of beautiful Lake Kenosha, just outside of Milwaukee, one wonderful night, the writer spent practically one evening with Armstrong Patterson, president of the national body, trying to convince Nat Ager that the course of the American League was all wrong. Agar tried to tell us that we in the West did not understand their troubles, and it was pathetic to hear him talk about vested interests. Being a lawyer, Agar is smart, but his habitual blocking of every move made to try to bring about peace lost him all his remaining friends.

WRONG DELEGATE

The owner of the Brooklyn club had some fine traits and helped many in the soccer game, but his vitrolic attack on the national amateur cup at many national conventions and the amateur end of the game did not help him one bit when the delegates got to work in the voting for matters appertaining to the welfare of the American League. In fact, the writer still feels that had the professional body sent down to Milwaukee a delegate other than Agar, it might have been possible to bridge over the trouble.

As the matter now stands, it is hardly possible for the United States Football Association to lift the ban on Agar and Hollywood. However, in case there is a general straightening out of the whole situation, and the coming back into organized soccer of the American League, what will be the status of Nathan Agar, as owner of the Brooklyn club? Will he be forced to sell his holdings and abdicate? In the matter of Wilfred Hollywood, he has no official connection with any club now that he is out of Southern New York, and soccer football has lost one of its most promising soccer legislators.

Fight Results

PITT TRAVELS

walloped the Orange 18-0 at Pittsburgh two weeks ago.

Nebraska is laying in wait for Pitt, for the Westerners have not forgotten the defeat they were handed in Pittsburgh last fall. The powerful Husker line, weighing better than 200 pounds from end to end, and with a set of backs, each of whom tip the beam at 185 or over, augurs ill for any opponent.

It is fortunate that the Panthers are in good physical condition. Nebraska is bound to give the boys a great pounding. Aside from a few minor bruises, the boys came out of the Wash-Jeff game in good shape—even Plug Parkinson, who starred against the Frosys with his cracked ribs held safe in a special cast. He will wear the same ring against Nebraska. He looks more like the Hunchback of Notre Dame than Lon Chaney himself.

I talked with Luby Dimeolo and Capt. Alex Fox, the lightweight Panther guards, at some length before they hit their bunks last night. These little fellows, who are certain to bear the brunt of the Nebraska line attack, ridicule the idea that they'll be kicked around by the heftier Husker linemen.

CAPT. FOX CONFIDENT

"I had little trouble with those big fellows last year and I don't expect much more this time," said Alex. "Those guys are big, sure enough, but they are also slow and are easy to get under. All you have to do is charge low and fast and hit 'em in the belly. They all go when the wagon comes and Luby, here, and I are going to be the wagons. Ding, ding."

The Pitt party left Pittsburgh last night at 9 p. m. The squad consists of 28 players, and Coach Sutherland, Assistant Coach Bowser, Trainer Bud Moore, Team Physician Dr. Ollie Kendricks, Student Manager Stewart and Don Saunders, publicity director. The equipment includes 10 decks of cards, one a stacked deck that Dr. Zonar Wissinger threw in for the benefit of Bud Moore.

BUC SIX

Holway and Mickey MacKay probably will command the greater interest. Miller, former Pittsburgh amateur star, was brought here from the New York Americans to fill the vacancy caused by the holdout tactics of Goalie Worters, and Holway, who came here from the Montreal Maroons at the start of the training grind, will endeavor to fill the shoes of Marty Burke, who was recalled by the Canadiens. MacKay is the newest of the new Pirates, arriving here only yesterday. He was purchased from the Chicago Hawks on Tuesday.

MILLER OLD FAVORITE

Miller, as a result of his brilliant work for the old P. A. A., and Pittsburgh Hornet sextets, already is a Pittsburgh favorite, and Holway, the blond giant, six feet tall and weighing 195 pounds, is certain to win his share of the applause. MacKay is a veteran, versatile performer who can step in either at wing or at center. As a skater and stick handler he has few superiors.

Other positions will be filled by "old dependables." Bert McCaffery will pair with Holway at defense, Hib Milks, leading scorer of the local club and one of the best goal getters in the circuit, will be at center, and the two Harolds, Darragh and Cotton, will take up the wing duties where they left off last season.

The durable Herb Drury, Tex White, Duke McCurry and MacKay, linemen, and Roger Smith and Johnny McKinnon, defenders, will make up the list of spares.

If the Pirates have a jinx on any club in the National loop, it is on these same Bruins whom they battle tonight. Poison to all other sextets in the American Group, the Bears last season were Pirate pie, the locals emerging with two victories and four ties in six meetings.

New Pirate uniforms of blue and gold, received Monday, have been well "broken in" and will be worn tonight.

One and possibly two major changes in the playing rules will be tested in the inaugural. The first provides a penalty for stalling when men are in the penalty box, and the second has to do with the breaking of deadlocks. 10 minutes of overtime play having been substituted for the "sudden death" system formerly practiced.

Norval Baptie, former world champion speed skater, and Gladys Lamb, figure skater extraordinary, have been brought here from New York to entertain the fans between periods. The probable lineup:

| Pittsburgh | | Boston |
|---|---|---|
| Miller | G | Winkler |
| McCaffery | D | Hitchman |
| Holway | D | Shore |
| Milks | C | Frederickson |
| Darragh | W | Oliver |
| Cotton | W | Galbraith |

Pittsburgh spares — McKinnon, Smith, MacKay, Drury, White and McCurry. Boston spares—Red Green, Rodden, Denneny, Gainor, Clapper, Gordon and Harrington.

WRIGHT-JACKSON DIVIDE FANS AS TO VALUE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE reported negotiations between the Pittsburgh and New York teams concerning a swap of the clubs' star shortstops have provided the fans of this section with a choice topic for comment.

Admittedly the two best shortfielders in the National League—perhaps in baseball—Glenn Wright and Travis Jackson naturally attract the focus of the fans' attention on the strength of the dealings looking toward an even exchange.

A vote of a thousand regular patrons of Forbes Field on the comparative value of the two ball hawks, would be extremely interesting. Who can say which player would be favored on such a ballot?

Put Glenn and Travis in action at the peak of their form and you would see two wonder workers.

The youthful rivals like the game, a point always to be considered. Both are active and each packs a terrific punch at the plate. I would say that the spread-eagle star of the Buccos is the more valuable with the bat.

Jackson is distinctly a leftfield hitter; it is quite common for the southerner to shell the scoreboard of the Oakland orchard and he has been known to clear this distant barricade.

Wright can hit the ball as hard to left as Travis and there is no comparison as regards their drives to center and rightfield. Jackson might play a hundred games in Oakland without hitting the ball into the rightfield stands, but every pitcher in the league knows that Buckshot is liable to smear one to that section any time the ball is a bit on the outside.

Jackson is a good man in a clinch when he is at the barrier, but Wright's supporters would offer Glenn as the best clouter in the league with an important marker on the runways.

So we will give Wright the wreath on the batting part of the offensive. In scoring runs and general baserunning, he must bow to his slender adversary. Jackson is a fleet sprinter and a good baserunner. Glenn is fairly fast, but he is poor on the bases, speaking from the standpoint of big-league standards.

Defensively, the two hawks are 18-karat gems. Going to his right or left, Buckshot is hardly surpassed in the game and his arm is the talk of the league.

Glenn's arm is so powerful and generally so accurate that he stands out in any array of high-class throwers like Pie Traynor, Fred Lindstrom and others. The Bucco shotstop is matched by few when it comes to relaying balls from the outfield to the plate.

True, Glenn has a bad weakness on slow rollers. This is accentuated when the taps are driven toward him. He allows the sphere to play him and often foozles this sort of chance. But what shortstop is without a weakness?

Jackson, being a little faster on his feet than Wright, probably covers more ground and he seems to be surer on slow rollers.

On value to his team, Jackson might get the verdict at this time, but in 1925 Wright probably would have been honored. There were few more valuable athletes in the sport than Wright during that big year.

Neither had a big season this year. That development might be an influencing factor in bringing about the proposed swap.

TEMPEST CLUB SHOWS FINE FORM

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Tempest club, one of the best light first-class teams in the city last winter, has strengthened its lineup considerably and expects to enjoy its finest season on the floor this year.

The Tempest passers have been working out with the Kingsley House team of the Greater Pittsburgh Institution League and are rapidly rounding into first-class condition.

Levinson and Sarkin, who starred for the Young Men's Hebrew Association last season, will be found in the lineup of the Tempest club this year. These two, boys compared with the best in amateur circles last year and they should be valuable additions to the Tempest team.

MYSTICS MEET M'CHESNEYTOWN ON SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS

THE Ambridge Mystics, who handed the independent followers a surprise by traveling to Port Vue and holding the Quakers to a 0-0 score last Sunday, signed last evening to meet McChesneytown at Latrobe Sunday.

The Ohio River club feels it can defeat any eleven in the so-called championship series and is confident it will stop the Big Red machine Sunday. Last evening McChesneytown and Port Vue Quakers also agreed to stage anoother meeting at Port Vue on November 25. McChesneytown played to the greatest crowd ever gathered for a football game at Romaine Feild three weeks ago. The result was a scoreless tie, and the fans have been clamoring for a return engagement.

On Thanksgiving Day, Burns and McChesneytown will again meet at Parnassus High School field. This will be the last appearance of the famous New Kensington club on the gridiron this fall. Burns is crippled, and had not the fans been agitating again having the Kennedy machine up the Allegheny River for Turkey Day, Manager Grafton Sullivan would have closed down for the season following the Amicus battle.

In all the remaining games of the season the clubs are still adhering to the exchange of player lists. Just now, all of the fair-minded managers are not thinking about loading up for the games to come.

Sports Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

next year is untrue, but does not deny there is a possibility that he may not return to Lafayette.

THE presence of Barney Dreyfuss in New York accompanied by his son, Sam, has caused a flurry of excitement among the Gotham baseball scribes. They insist that the visit cannot mean anything else than a step to trade Glenn Wright, and the printed stories run all the way from a rumor that the two Pirate officials called upon John McGraw for a talk about Travis Jackson to a surmise that they are looking for Emil Fuchs to make a dicker for Outfielder Lance Richbourg or a Boston pitcher.

Ray Schalk.

Many more wild guesses of that sort may be expected before Wright is traded. That Jackson will be sought eventually there is hardly any doubt, but there is reason to believe that the Dreyfusses have not yet broached the subject to McGraw and that nothing will be done prior to the National League meeting next month when Manager Donie Bush will be on the scene.

WHETHER Ray Schalk will be seen as a catcher in the National League next season for the first time, or will be carried by the Giants merely as a coach, is a question on which the fans are still speculating. Manager McGraw says it will all depend upon circumstances. "We did not get Schalk for catching purposes," declared the Giant boss. "We got him to coach the catchers and pitchers and to be my assistant. But Schalk is a fellow who always is in shape. If I need him as a catcher, I'll use him. He will be on our active list anyhow, until June 15. Whether he stays on it after that, or is carried merely as a coach, will depend entirely upon how the team stands in relation to the limit of 25 players. But he is capable of helping out if we need him." The signing of Schalk means the departure of Roger Bresnahan from the Giant camp. Roger has been made free to better himself if he can, and is believed to be trying to land a major league managerial job.

JOHN COST, a student in the University of Pittsburgh law school, who has been in charge of the football scoreboard at the Stadium since the Pitt team began to play its home games there, has an idea to submit to the Panther athletic officials. It has to do with an improvement in the system of keeping the spectators informed as to what is happening down on the playing field.

Cost suggests that, instead of the present scoreboard arrangement, which consists merely of the posting of numbers showing the number of the downs, the distance to be gained and the number of the man who carried the ball on the latest play, all of these details and others be given out by an announcer and made to reach the ears of every spectator distinctly through numerous amplifiers installed around the field.

IN THE proposed new system of keeping patrons posted as to everything that is going on, Cost would include announcements to acquaint the spectators with the nature of each offense for which a penalty is imposed upon either team, the need for which was recently pointed out by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The use of amplifiers for the announcement of plays to a football crowd was tried on the occasion of the Army-Navy game at Soldiers Field in Chicago on November 27, 1926, and worked out successfully. With some improvements that Cost has in mind the adoption of the system at the Stadium for the seasons to come appears well worth the consideration of the Pitt and Carnegie gridiron chiefs.

Rogers Hornsby.

ANNUAL statement by Rogers Hornsby: "Words cannot express how delighted I am to become a member of the ..... ball club. It has been the dearest wish and the highest ambition of my baseball life to play in ..... I always have considered ..... the greatest ball town in the country. The fans of ..... are the best, the fairest and the most intelligent to be found anywhere. There is no question in my mind that Manager ..... is the smartest and greatest pilot in baseball, and I have long desired to play under him. It will be a great pleasure to help win the pennant for Manager ..... and also for Mr. ....., who is without doubt the finest club owner and the most generous employer in the game." It is Chicago's turn to hear Hornsby's line this fall, and Rogers is telling the Windy City fans how his baseball next year will win a lot of the 2-to-1 games that slipped away from the Cubs last season. By June or July the same fans may want to know why Hornsby isn't getting the pop flies to short right or the grounders between first and second that Freddie Maguire was wont to "eat up."

ICE OPENERS

Boston will give the Bruins added seating capacity and the Rangers, with the best American attendance of 166,000 last season, hope for better returns in the coming campaign. Both Chicago and Pittsburgh have improved their rinks.

Favorites in the race are the four teams heading the two divisions last spring at the close of the regular season. They are the World Champion Rangers and the Boston Bruins in the American group and the Maroons and Canadiens in the International Section.

The Rangers have been considerably strengthened by the trading of Lorne Chabot to Toronto, along with a bundle of cash for John Ross Roach, premier goalie of the league. The purchase of Butch Keiling from the same club, and the signing of Myles Lane, Dartmouth College defense star, also was noted. The Bruins will depend on their stars, Eddie Shaw and Frank Frederickson, and a set of fast-traveling youngsters.

The Canadiens, with the most colorful of the league's forward lines in Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat and Art Gagne still intact, will miss the defensive strength of Herb Gardiner, who has gone to Chicago as manager. The Maroons are standing pat on a star lineup that includes Babe Siebert, Dune Munro, Hoolie Smith, Nels Stewart, and Clint Benedict, one of the league's greatest goalies.

The two weakest outfits last season, New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks, have been torn down and reassembled. The Hawks bought the Saskatoon team outright in an effort to build strength around Dick Irvin and Mickey MacKay. The Americans acquired Babe Dye from Chicago, Johnny Sheppard from Detroit, and Harry Connors from Boston.

Without Roach and Keeling, the Maple Leafs of Toronto are not considered so formidable as in the past and Pittsburgh, with Hib Milks and Hal Darragh in the lineup, but Roy Worters, goal tending ace, slated for sale to the Americans, is a doubtful quantity. Ottawa will string with its veterans, Frank Clancy, Frank Nighbor, Alex Connell and two great youngsters, Hector Kilrea and Frank Finnegan. Detroit, with a few changes, still has Georgie Hay, almost a team in himself, and Sailor Herberts, Dolly Dolson, and Noble, but appears neither stronger nor weaker than last season.

GOLDSTEIN DAZED IN BOUT

From Dr. M. R. Goldman, friend of Phil Goldstein, local lightweight boxer, comes the news that Goldstein fought the last five rounds of his battle with Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion, at Buffalo, last Monday night with his mind a blank. He was knocked down for a count of nine in the fifth round and doesn't remember anything that happened thereafter, according to his version of the battle in a long-distance talk with Dr. Goldman yesterday. He said his last recollection of the bout was that of being struck a hard blow on the jaw in the fifth round. When he recovered his bearings after the bout, his seconds told him, and newspaper accounts bear them out, that he did his best fighting while mixing instinctively, or subconsciously. He took the limit count of nine as if his mind were functioning normally, his seconds told him, and fought well through the remaining rounds. When it was all over they were surprised at his failure to recall any of the action after that knockdown blow went home.

ADOPT ROOKIE RULE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 15—(AP.)—The Sally League has voted to adopt a "rookie rule," limiting the number of Class B players on a team in the circuit and also adopted an "inactive list" limit which will not allow a club to carry more than four disabled players on its roll. Each club must carry not less than three actual players who have not been at bat more than 75 times in leagues higher than Class C.

Everhart Made Coach

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 15—A. J. Everhart, coach of the Uniontown High School athletics, is to whip the Uniontown Junior College basketball team into shape. His election as basketball mentor was announced yesterday after a session of the athletic council of the college which is affiliated with the Pitt University.

VAGABONDS TRIUMPH

The Oakland Vagabonds beat the fast Velox Club of the I. K. S. Wednesday night, 28-20. Hooks Friedlander was the high scorer with 10 points. He was closely followed by Cy Milton, who clicked in six goals from difficult angles. Rattner and Pincus played best for the losers.

U. S. G. A. PICKS DOUGLAS AS NEXT HEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Findlay S. Douglas, of New York, will succeed Malvin A. Traylor, of Chicago, as president of the United States Golf Association at the annual meeting in January.

Douglas heads the ticket made public by the nominating committee yesterday. The nomination amounts to election.

H. H. Ramsay, New York, and Roger D. Lapham, San Francisco, were nominated for the two vice presidencies. Ramsay now is vice president and Lapham has been a member of the executive committee over a period of years.

Prescott S. Bush, secretary, and Charles H. Sabin, treasurer, will be re-elected. John G. Jackson, New York, will be the new general counsel.

Another good golfer will join Bobby Jones on the executive committee, when Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, of St. Paul, takes his place on the committee.

Wynant D. Vanderpool, former president of the association, continues as an honorary member of the executive committee and the president, two vice presidents, secretary and treasurer are members by virtue of their offices.

The executive committee will be completed by the election of Hebert Jaques, Boston; Rodman E. Griscom, Philadelphia; Harry Potter, St. Louis; Ganson Depew, Buffalo; Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta; Cornelius S. Lee, New York; Robert M. Cutting, Chicago; Harrison R. Johnston, St. Paul.

Jaques, Griscom, Jones, Depew and Potter now are members of the committee.

The nominating committee for 1930 will consist of Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman; Hobart P. Young, Hamilton F. Corbett, Henry H. Wilder and Thomas B. Paine.

DAVIS-ELKINS TO OBSERVE FROSH RULE

ELKINS, W. Va., Nov. 15.—(AP.)—Athletic teams of Davis & Elkins College will observe the "freshman rule" beginning with the next school year, Jennings Randolph, director of athletics, announced here today.

Randolph said the action had been under consideration at the local school for some months and that the move was made with the unanimous approval of the college athletic committee.

Davis & Elkins has played a schedule of almost nation-wide scope for several years and this season gained prominence by defeating West Virginia University and the United States Naval Academy. The adoption of the rule, it was believed, would add to the prestige of the "Scarlet Hurricane" team.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

New Blaw Knox Strong

Stocks Still Rise

PITTSBURGH PLATE GLASS STRONG IN LOCAL MARKET

An active demand for industrial specialties imparted a strong tone to the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Interest in the early market was centered on Pittsburgh Plate Glass, which sold "ex" the 10 per cent stock dividend. The stock came into the market unusually strong at 70, whereas and opening equivalent to last night's close with the dividend on would have been at about 67. The strong opening attracted a little profit-taking, but it was easily absorbed and the stock maintained its dem tone throughout the forenoon session.

A newcomer to the list was the new stock of the Blaw Knox Company representing the three-for-one split-up of the old shares. This issue also started strong, selling on the first transaction at 44 as against last night's final sale of the old stock at 129. Dividends on the new Blaw Knox have not been announced nor has there been any intimation as to the rate to be established. The old stock received $3 a year. The new Pittsburgh Plate Glass will receive dividends at the rate of $2 a year. The old stock received $8 before the split-up so that with the 10 per cent dividend, the present shares will receive regular disbursements at the rate of $8.80 on the old. There will probably be extras on the new stock from time to time as the company paid as high as $10 a year extra on the old issue prior to the depression in the glass industry resulting from the severe foreign competition.

In the New York market Westinghouse Electric continued its forward movement and got into new high ground early in the session. There was no trading in the issue here.

Oil stocks were firm as were the fuel issues. Lone Star was in demand around 65 while the oil producing stocks showed fractional advances in reflection of the upturns in the petroleum division in New York.

The list maintained the strong tone throughout the last hour and encountered very little realizing as a result of the higher quotations. Armstrong Cork reached a new current high at 60, a six point recovery from the low established following the listing of the shares. High for the issue this year was 67. American Window Glass Machine common sold back up to 30, confirming rumors that there had been well informed accumulation on the setback a few weeks ago.

Delirium Tremens Grips Markets; Unloading Noted

By B. C. FORBES

THE stock market is having an attack of delirium tremens. Speculation is raging more violently than ever before in history. The gambling fever is not confined to large cities but has spread to almost every hamlet and community on the continent.

Think of it: One day's transactions on the New York Stock Exchange and the New York curb market exceeded 7,375,000 shares, equal, figuring $100 a share, to a total turnover of $737,500,000.

No other stock market in all time ever approached such a spectacle.

What is the upshot going to be?

"YOU can bank upon the bull market lasting into the new year," is the cheerful assurance given by enthusiastic bulls. "The biggest operators will not cash in much of their profits during the rest of this year because they would have to pay during next year heavy taxes on them."

The action of the market, notwithstanding all the brave show it has put up, does not confirm any such theory, any such assurance. Only the blindest bull could fail to see that, while the speculative pot was boiling mad furiously, unloading was quietly but extensively under way in various stocks, including General Motors and Montgomery Ward.

THIS week's happenings in Wall Street are exactly in accordance with expectations. It was widely predicted that the triumph of Hoover, which never for a moment was doubted, would be utilized as occasion for a wild new demonstration on the up-side. The multi-millionaire pool operators confidently counted upon being able to arouse unparalleled interest and activity.

They proved able to carry out their program—that part of it.

THE next part of the program, the understanding is, will take the form of distribution of just as much stock as the public will take off their hands at anything like the peak prices.

Whether such developments will actually be witnessed remains to be seen. Certainly the market's behavior this week has reflected unloading in selected stocks.

PROBABLY a great many dabblers in stocks are telling themselves that they will get out as soon as the market shows definite signs of breaking. They probably assume that nothing worse than an orderly decline can possibly occur and that, therefore, they will be able to cash in practically all their paper profits.

Well, the perpendicular drop in Montgomery Ward of $14 a share on Monday, the fall of $12 at one stage yesterday in Radio, and other equally sharp relapses in a number of other stocks, should be interpreted as warning that when the pools elect to unload they may not cease their offerings just because quotations give way. Remember that the advance in some of the stocks favored by the pools as exceeded 100 per cent and in some instances 200 to more than 1,000 per cent. Consequently, drops of $20, $30, $50 a share could be sustained and still leave the pool owners with profits.

NOBODY who has retained his sanity contends for one moment that the stock market is acting naturally. Last Friday there was a sudden switch to the railway division as if a commander-in-chief had ordered up a new battalion of soldiers. The opening of the week saw this same group as suddenly deserted. The instant Montgomery Ward began to collapse, Sears-Roebuck was trotted to the front and skyrocketed $40 in two days.

One cannot but marvel at the generalship exhibited by the arch-manipulators. But one can marvel and still doubt their ability to keep on performing speculative miracles indefinitely.

PRESSED STEEL CAR DEFERS DIVIDEND

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE preferred dividend of the Pressed Steel Car Co. was placed in doubt yesterday when directors announced, following their meeting, that action had been deferred until the week after next. No definite time was set for the meeting and no further explanation was made.

The absence of demand for new cars by the railroads has resulted in three lean years for Pressed Steel Car. In 1926 a deficit of $629,803 was reported and in 1927 net profit of $529,213 only covered half of dividend requirements on the $15,000,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

The present year has been another poor one for the railroad equipment makers so that little improvement over last year's earnings can be expected.

A new attempt was also announced yesterday to carry out the recapitalization plan undertaken early this year.

Holders of the 5 per cent gold bonds due in 1933 were offered the right to exchange their holdings for 5 per cent convertible debentures due in 1943, par for par and to receive with each $1,000 debenture three shares of no par common stock. Rights were previously offered to make the exchange up to March 17, 1928.

THE exchange was part of a plan by which the old $100 par common stock was exchanged for no par stock; the $6,000,000 of 5s due in 1933 were to be exchanged for debentures 5s; common stockholders were to be offered rights to subscribe for additional debentures and debentures were to be offered to preferred holders in exchange for 25 per cent of their holdings on a basis of $10,000 of debentures and 30 shares of common for each 100 shares of preferred.

The plan would have the advantage of replacing about $3,750,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock with an equal amount of 5 per cent debentures. It would have given the principal item of the funded debt a more distant maturity and the increase in common stock, which is not on a dividend basis, would not make any immediate charge on earnings. The elimination of a portion of the preferred stock may also have been desirable to those in control because of the fact that it has voting rights.

IF THE recapitalization is ever consummated as planned it will leave outstanding $11,250,000 of preferred, 413,250 shares of common and funded debt of $10,818,000, of which $9,750,000 will consist of debenture 5s.

The production of steel sheets continued to increase last month, although sales and unfilled tonnage declined. Sales, production and unfilled tonnage all were greater than a year ago. Sheet makers reporting to the National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers sold 344,614 tons during October, compared with 370,936 tons in September and 224,358 tons a year ago. Production was 369,243 tons, compared with 318,907 tons in the preceding month and 232,641 tons a year ago. Unfilled tonnage on November 1 was 525,161, compared with 539,960 tons on October 1 and 500,120 tons on November 1, 1927.

The Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation is continuing its expansion program. Two more lines are to be built which will require 200 miles of main line pipe. The largest of these is a 20-inch welded line from the Caddo-Little Rock main line at Moorlingsport to the Monroe and Richland gas field, a distance of 125 miles and the other is a 56-mile line from El Dorado to Emmet, Arkansas.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Awaits Loan Report.

There was considerable hesitation noticeable in today's trading on the stock exchange, mainly because the Street expects a big increase in brokers' loans as a result of the wide public participation in the market the past 10 days. The loan statement will be issued after the close today. However, there was no heavy selling of stocks. The apparent desire of the trading element was to stand aside until the bank report is out of the way this afternoon and adjust position in tomorrow's market. The volume of trading proved large despite the comparatively uninteresting price movement. At noon the tickers were about 35 minutes behind the actual transactions on the floor. This is not considered a high loan any day this week, the previous market's including Monday's, having been anywhere from 50 minutes to an hour and a quarter in the recording process. Steel maintained its firm tone and was assisted in balancing the market by such stocks as Westinghouse, General Electric and Standard Oil of New Jersey. The psychology of strength in such issues is very important as a sustaining factor when the general trading fraternity begins to wonder about the ability of the main list to hold at what are considered inordinate levels.

United States Steel.

Action of U. S. Steel in assuming popular leadership of the market and advancing into new high ground has revived discussions of some special developments favoring stockholders. Some interests have gone so far as to predict a split-up on the basis of two for one before the end of the year, with a $4 a share annual dividend basis on the new stock. Authoritative sources have asserted flatly along in the past that such rumors were without foundation and again insist now that no such development is contemplated. There has been some outside buying in the stock as a result of the split-up talk, but the largest purchases have come from important interests who have probably on several occasions that Steel is one of the stocks which have not been overexploited and which are out of line with many other industrials.

Bethlehem Steel Earnings.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation earnings in September were about the same as those of both the preceding months combined. This means that of the $1.57 a share shown for the third quarter nearly three-fifths of a share was made in September. The month was the best of the year until surpassed by October. The importance of these figures lies in the light they shed on fourth quarter probabilities. With them as a basis an estimate of $2.50 a share on Bethlehem's 1,800,000 common shares in the current quarter appears conservative and perhaps conservative. With $3.94 a share earned in the first nine months this would make common share earnings for the year close to $6.50, against $5.02 in 1927 and $7.48 in 1926.

Westinghouse Electric.

There has been no abatement in the persistent buying of Westinghouse Electric for the account of important interest on the theory that this stock is not yet appreciated by outsiders to the same extent that others have reflected their strong financial position. For many years Westinghouse has put the profits of affiliates into new plant and equipment. In the past six years alone $39,715,000 was spent for these purposes, and the organization is in a position to finance its future expansion increase in business, which is in prospect, without additional expenditures at this time. There are rumors in the Street of a three-for-one split-up of the common.

Railroad Stocks.

Market observers report that there is evidence of considerable buying in many railroad stocks. These issues appear to be gaining in popularity, probably because of the buying recommendations which continue to come from conservative commission houses. Investment funds are still inclined to favor Union Pacific among the rails, and believe this stock will be one of the outstanding features for some time.

MENTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH WHEN ANSWERING ADVERTISEMENTS.

The strong position of the road and the large holdings of securities are factors most mentioned as likely to lead to special benefits for stockholders in the future. Interests who purchased Missouri-Kansas-Texas as much as 20 points under existing levels are not taking profits. They insist that the possibilities of the stock are far from exhausted, particularly as there are indications that the issue is growing in public demand.

Pressed Steel Car.

Pressed Steel Car common held steady today in the face of the announcement that directors had deferred action on the preferred dividend due yesterday. The dividend action was postponed until the week after next. It is understood the company has received orders for about $5,000,000 of new business recently, including 1,000 box cars for Canadian National Railways and 500 refrigerator cars for the American Refrigerator Transit Company. A heavy volume of additional new business is pending and it is thought in some quarters that action on the preferred dividend will be influenced by the disposition of these orders. Detailed statement of Pressed Steel Car's earnings and recapitalization plan is contained in George H. Snyder's article in another column in today's Sun-Telegraph financial section.

General American Tank Car.

Definite announcement of calling of General American Tank Car's $7,752,700 preferred stock is expected within a few weeks. Details of the plan are not yet available. Indeed, they may not all have been definitely agreed on yet. But it is known that preferred retirement will involve no financing of any kind either by issue of bonds or of additional common stock. Payment of the entire issue will mean a saving of interest charges equivalent to nearly $1 a share on the 590,895 common shares. Earnings of the company for the third quarter will be $2,000,000 or several times those in the third quarter when net for stock was approximately $1,045,000, a record figure. The stock has a large Pittsburgh following.

Rudolph Spreckles, sugar magnate, is also interested in the company.

County Parks Will Have Appeal in Winter Sports

North and South Parks, under county supervision, are to have a winter appeal as well as summer, according to plans just announced. Skiing, tobogganning and snowshoeing are all that is contemplated for the immediate future, but it is stated that skating ponds will be available to followers of that popular winter sport a year hence. As soon as there is sufficient snow the pastimes noted will be open to those who wish to follow them.

In providing for winter sports in the parks the County Commissioners make these big public playgrounds serve the people of Allegheny County at a time when most of us need more than at any other time the invigoration that recreation in the open air provides. In the spring, summer and autumn we spend much time in the open, but a great many of us "house up" for the winter as soon as cold weather arrives. Many lack the opportunity rather than the inclination to engage in pleasures seasonable only to winter.

Winter sports are promoted in Canada to an extent that probably is not possible here, but they serve, anyway, as an example of how the public relishes an opportunity to frolic in the bracing atmosphere that lower mercury brings. We vision the time when, on days of suitable weather, our parks will be thronged by thousands in the winter as well as summer.

Foolish Blue Law Edict By Mayor of Johnstown

Although the quickest way to get rid of an objectionable law, like the Sunday blue law of 1794, is the strict enforcement that will make its irksome restrictions evident to all, many will think that Mayor Joseph Cauffield of Johnstown goes too far in making the public feel the baneful effects of the law so markedly that everybody will suffer in being made to realize the ridiculousness of it.

Mayor Cauffield says he is going to put the "lid" on everything in his town. In this he includes operation of street cars. He also would close drug stores and restaurants, along with news stands and gasoline filling stations. Mayor Cauffield's contempt of the blue law's extremities is one thing and making himself part of the nuisance is another. Of course, he can shield himself in the fancied justification that he is acting as the supporters of the law demand, but that will not help the hungry or sick or those who make use of street cars to carry them to church as well as other places.

To carry out his intention completely the Mayor should place gates across the Pennsylvania Railroad at the limits of the city, stop all trains, and also shut down the electric lighting and power stations. He might as well go the limit while he is about it. But nobody wants the churches closed because of lack of illumination. And the public doesn't want people to go hungry or without needed medicine.

Not even to show how foolish, discriminatory and inconsistent with modern ways of living the blue law is!

School Expenses Rise But Tax Is Kept Down

Although the school budget approved by the Board of Public Education represents an increase of $632,936.01, the millage for educational purposes in 1929 remains 11½, as it has been annually since 1922. Increase in taxable valuation through the erection of new buildings, and the use of balances carried forward from the present year are expected to take care of the budget expansion, largely made necessary by new schools and 110 new teachers.

The taxpayer will feel grateful to the Board of Education for holding taxes down at a time when it faces demands which easily could send the tax rate up. Since growth of the school system has been on a plane satisfactory to the citizens, it appears that our school board uses prudence in spending the monies placed in its charge.

Interesting to Every Irishman

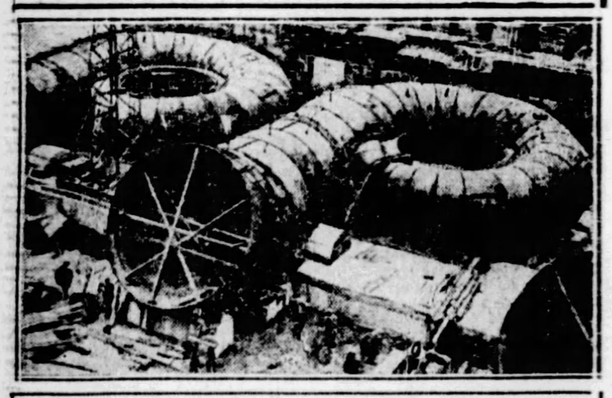
Turning Shannon Waters Into Power and Gold.



TUBES THAT WILL FEED THE SHANNON WATERS TO THE TURBINES, PRODUCING WEALTH FOR IRELAND.

Irishmen especially, and all those that wish well to their fellow creatures, will look with delight upon this plain picture.

It shows the gigantic worm-shaped metal tubes through which the plunging waters of the River Shannon will be carried to turbines, their power there transformed into electricity and wealth for all Ireland.

This magnificent power project, built by a German firm—the Irish wisely letting the contract to the ablest concern—will supply power to factories not only in the South of Ireland, but in the North of Ireland as well.

The great new power supply is expected to increase by millions of pounds the annual wealth of Ireland and revive the ancient prosperity.

And the work is done well.

The German contractors paid good wages, and got good work, and they developed new ideas.

They not only had workers, but also photographers. If a worker, thinking himself unobserved, took half an hour off for a "shut-eye," his photograph was taken while he slept.

When his wages were docked and he complained bitterly that he never slept a minute on a job in his life, they showed him the photograph of himself sound asleep, and that convinced him.

That seems a little hard on the sleeper, but it is a good thing for industry.

Real WORK, real PAY, real PROSPERITY.

And three cheers for Ireland, which has taken the short cut to wealth production.

The power of the River Shannon will tempt the North of Ireland more than 10,000,000 speeches, to join with the Free State.

The Next Act Will Be Different

ON THE nation's stage there has been plenty of entertainment the last few weeks, with that snappy young humorist, Dr. Politics, doing his justly famous monologue, incidental music by the Voters' Band. But the act is drawing to a close. And the next act? Oh, that will be different. The Holiday Trio, in songs and dances, is waiting in the wings. Their stuff is old, but always new. Thanksgiving's lines are side-splitting. The acrobatic work of Santa Claus has been approved by billions. And the magic of New Year, producing the most remarkable sets of New Resolutions from nobody knows where, is perhaps the most entertaining performance of all. Get off the stage, Doc, the audience is waiting.

Tales That Are Told

What Worried Him

THE two friends had not met for some time, and the first was quick to notice the look of misery on the other's face.

"I say, Bertie, old man," he said, "what's the matter with you? Anybody would think you'd lost something."

"I have," answered the other. "Barbara rejected me last night."

"Oh—well, never mind! There are as good fish in the ocean as ever came out of it."

"Oh, yes, of course!" agreed the miserable man. "But somehow I can't help feeling sorry for that little girl."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

WELL, this is another one about a girl that thought she could sing. She says to him, "Now, I'm a pretty good singer already, as you can tell by reading my diplomas. But I'd like to get into the big time. Grand opera or something like that, you know. I want you to hear me, and then we'll talk about my course of instruction and advice. Really, you know, I need advice worse than I do instruction."

So she rang for him, and then she says, "Now, what to do? What do you advise? What kind of singing do you think my voice is best suited for?"

"Well," he says, "if you really must sing, I'd advise community singing."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Gauge

NOT from my tasks most wisely done
Springs all I feel of pride,
For, whether I have lost or won,
I joy in that I tried.

Though men have known since time's first dawn
That victory is sweet,
From strife I never have withdrawn
Because I fear defeat.

For higher than the crowd's acclaim
I hold the effort spent,
And truer than the voice of fame
The striving soul's intent.

And never till life's final gleam
Has flickered, dimmed and died,
Will any wage more precious seem
Than joy because I tried.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

NEW ORLEANS looks pretty much like any other big, prosperous city when you first come into it. The usual railroad terminals, warehouses, the usual littered streets—chimneys, telephone wires, street cars, electric signs—all the ugly, necessary paraphernalia of modern life. So this is New Orleans—and they had told you it was so romantic!

Later, having a few hours to kill, you decide to walk. You walk, indifferent as to direction, so colorless is the scene. Presently you find that the street has narrowed, is cobbled instead of paved. There is a wooden awning above you, leaning balconies, small huddled shops with fly blown windows—beaded funeral wreaths, racks of dusty jewelry, holy images. You are in the old French quarter, though that does not interest you for you are seeing, still, only the blank, masked face of a strange city.

Then suddenly something vivid flickers past your eye and is gone. You stop, wondering—turn and look about. What was it that touched you like a call—a hand? Beside you one of the low, weather-beaten doors hangs open. Beyond stretches a long paved passage, tunnel dark, which opens at the end into a sudden, jeweled blaze of light. Warm golden air, spattering on damp, red tiles—lacework of fern in hanging Indian jars—a waxy vine with deep magenta flowers—an old wrought iron seat—the lisp of water in a shallow pool.

Everywhere in the old French quarters you may find them, these hidden patios. They are the spots reserved for friends or family recreation or a quiet, twilight hour with God. The bustle of the streets does not enter them nor does the city grime fall upon their trailing vines or shadowed galleries. They are truly the heart of New Orleans and after you have once found them you feel them forever after—like a mysterious presence, perfuming the dusty streets, whispering beneath the uproar and the clatter.

New Orleans will never again seem to me like any other big, prosperous city. Always I shall feel that secret beauty which waits behind the little, weather-beaten doors.

Plain people are so often like that. Many a time I have judged people as I judged New Orleans, putting them down as commonplace and colorless. Then some day stumbled suddenly upon some small, secret entrance to their hearts and so came upon living loveliness—

Most of us, I suspect, have a hidden patio where there is beauty, and a song and—sometimes—a quiet, twilight hour with God.

POLAR CURRENTS

By Garrett P. Serviss

THAT the ocean is full of "rivers" nobody can doubt, and that some of these great currents, like the Gulf Stream in the earlier part of its course, are practically permanent is also a fact that seems to be demonstrated; but that, as recently announced, there is an ocean stream flowing between the poles is a statement that will require a great deal of corroboration by actual and extensive observation before it can be accepted as representing a fact of nature. The ascription of the theory to Commander Smith, of the U. S. Coast Guard, who has lately been exploring the sea between Greenland and Labrador, may give it an a priori standing for investigation.

This mysterious "underwater stream or creek," it is asserted, flows northward over the cold ocean bottom "from the South Pole." It gets warmer as it passes the tropics and the equator, and at Greenland its temperature has become 2½ degrees Centigrade. "There it seeps into the other currents and begins its long, slow flow back to the icefields of the south."

If the existence of such a current crossing the equator in both directions (presumably underneath in going north and above in returning south) should ever be established, there would be a revolution in the physical charts of the Atlantic.

But there is nothing hypothetical about the recent discoveries of the Coast Guard concerning the birthplace of the North Atlantic icebergs. Along the west shore of Greenland, where the mighty and mysterious ice cap covering that strange, intrusive continent crowds its glittering edges down to the sea, there are special "danger points" where the projecting glaciers "calve bergs."

These ocean "calves" of the white north find their way out of the recesses of the fiords in which they are born into the well-known "Labrador current," which flows downward through Baffin Bay, carrying whole fleets of chilling bergs as far south as the Banks of Newfoundland, where they lose themselves in the fog created by their own melting—for as the ice dissolves heat is extracted from the enveloping atmosphere, so that its moisture condenses into mists lying in vast white clouds on the face of the water far around the bergs. And the trans-Atlantic "greyhounds" drop their pride of speed as they venture into these obscuring mists, and blow their hoarse and melancholy horns to scare away, not the impassable bergs, whose steel-hard backs would instantly crush a battleship, but the chance fishing vessels which may lie in the track.

Bible Passages

"God Is Mighty"

(Job 36; 5-19.)

BEHOLD, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: he is mighty in strength and wisdom.

He preserveth not the life of the wicked; but giveth right to the poor.

He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous: but with kings are they on the throne; yea, he doth establish them for ever, and they are exalted.

And if they be bound in fetters, and be holden in cords of affliction;

Then he sheweth them their work, and their transgressions that they have exceeded.

He openeth also their ear to discipline, and commandeth that they return from iniquity.

If they obey and serve him, they shall spend their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasures.

But if they obey not, they shall perish by the sword, and they shall die without knowledge.

But the hypocrites in heart heap up wrath; they cry not when he bindeth them.

They die in youth, and their life is among the unclean.

He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ears in oppression.

Even so would he have removed thee out of the strait into a broad place, where there is no straitness; and that which should be set on thy table should be full of fatness.

But thou hast fulfilled the judgment of the wicked: judgment and justice take hold on thee.

Because there is wrath, beware lest he take thee away with his stroke; then a great ransom cannot deliver thee.

Will he esteem thy riches? no, not gold, nor all the forces of strength.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—One of Manhattan's most amazing blind men lives in the purlieus of upper Park avenue. At the peak of a brilliant career he was imprisoned in a wrecked sleeper abroad and frightfully scalded. A famed Swiss surgeon was called in.

For several days the patient was cowled in cotton and then a careful examination was made. The surgeon called his wife and told her her husband would never see again. The organs of sight were destroyed beyond surgical repair.

"Our fight," he said, "must be psychological. Under no circumstances must his plight be mentioned to him or must he be treated as one who is blind." He returned to his patient and a week later said: "You are the most courageous man I have ever known. See to it you always retain your courage." Then he removed the bandage.

From that day, seven years ago, to this no mention has been made to him of his blindness or has he ever mentioned it to another. He lives exactly as one who has full use of his optical faculties. He rides well and is interested in fine horses.

A brace of secretaries keep him abreast of the news of the day and the latest in literature. He even follows the progress of comic strips. When he is told of a good play or a good book he will say: "I must read that," or "I must see that."

He has learned to walk about his district alone and while he wears black glasses there are many meeting him on these walks who do not know he is sightless. He has mastered the violin by ear and carried on the direction of a business.

Those who meet him since his accident have always been impressed by his cheerfulness. In refusing to submit to his bludgeoning, he has, in many ways, mastered it. By a sort of subtle sense he is able to describe certain things others see, but which he does not.

A restaurant recently had broccoli on its menu for dinner. Almost simultaneously every patron who ordered the dish began to look about wanly and hopefully for a little privacy. All required medical attention and recovered. It developed a poisonous fluid used by the grower in destroying insects that attacked roots had impregnated the vegetable.

There is a little coffee colored Panamanian boxer, with a hefty wallop, who has become a quondam figure along the Illuminated Aisle. He wears black silk shirts with collars to match and flaming red four-in-hand ties. His cane is all white as are the buttons on his shoes. And dangling around his neck is a monocle attached to a pink string. "Jimmy Walker," observed a Broadwayite, "in mourning."

New York has seen the final word in motor stage coaches—used to travel from coast to coast. It is the first motor coach to provide sleeping quarters. Twenty-six passengers are carried—two in each compartment. The cushions of the seats are made into berths at night. There is ample room and wash basins with running water, also a compact kitchen. The buses will not stop save to discharge or take on passengers at certain points where relief drivers are picked up.

The corner popcorn stand does not thrive in New York somehow. In almost every other large city they have become institutions manned usually by gentlemen with a lioan tamer's roach in their hair. A few are seen on the lower East Side, but uptown they have become almost memories.

One thing may be said for the reputed bad manners of a New Yorker. He never raps at your hotel door without first being announced by telephone.

Add metropolitan annoyances: Those gentlemen with "confidential messages" from friends who must see you in person and then try to sell you membership in exclusive clubs.

The latest among New York's ultra sportsmen is polar bear hunting in Alaska. And most of us what with riding to hounds and such haven't yet caught up with our pheasant shooting.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

CELLINI, the tempestuous artist, was in jail. His enemy took a diamond worth a hundred crowns and gave it to a goldsmith to grind to small pieces.

Then he sent the ground diamonds to Cellini's jailer and told him to mix it with the artist's food. And Cellini would soon be dead.

But the goldsmith, Lione, was very poor, and so he stole the diamond and Cellini was fed some soft, harmless stone which he soon discovered after examining small particles on his plate.

Then Cellini thanked God for the poverty that had saved his life.

People have a habit of glorifying poverty theoretically but shunning it practically as far as possible.

The Frenchman who is known as the Attic Philosopher, because he was poor and lived in an attic and was happy and wrote fine things, has a deal to say in praise of poverty.

He says, "Away from me, ye banquets, over which hangs the sword of Damocles! I am a country mouse. Give me my nuts and hollow tree and I ask nothing besides—except security!"

Then follows an apostrophe to Poverty with an invitation for her to stay with him, with her charming sisters, Pity, Patience, Sobriety and Solitude.

But Poverty is an expert at losing friends. People who live long with her, hate her with an unleashed hatred.

Wealth doubtless has damned many gods of the world. But poverty is never satiated with her potters' field filled with snuffed-out genius.

Wealth builds the Kingdom of Heaven among us. It gives knowledge for ignorance, culture for boorishness, art for ugliness, health for disease, joy for sorrow, progress for degeneracy.

Poverty is an old hag more repulsive than an alley harridan.

God never uses her as a handmaiden, and not a soul in the world wants to make her acquaintance.

Happy, indeed, is the man who has a philosophy that will sustain him while forced to lodge in the charnel house of Poverty.

Wealth is the talisman of human joy.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

AN International Congress for Injured Husbands will be held in Vienna in January, according to Herr Hoeberth, president of the organization which demands rights for men. Delegates from all civilized countries will attend.

It is only where they have civilization that they have these troubles. Savages haven't any social ambitions, and they can be happy with their man if he gives them only breadfruit and cocoanut juice. As for knick-knacks, they pick up their own, in the woods.

Alimony, say the wronged husbands, is "a disgrace on humanity." They think men should have the same protection that divorce gives women, and that men need some courageous legislation to protect them against the greed of women.

"It's all true enough, but as long as men gravitate to the corner where the pretty, well dressed ones are, women are going to try to be in that corner, and you can't do it for the price of cotton stockings and a basement hat.

We can say this much for ourselves. Many of us went to work so that we could buy the kind of things the co-respondent wore. We saw her pictures in the papers, beside that of the wife, and we could tell what happened. The wife grew plain trying to save for a rainy day, and she got so serious about it that husband thought he would frolic a little while the sun still shone.

It's a grand idea to save for a rainy day, but it's a great mistake to make all of them dark and wet while we wait for it. That idea has lost more than one good husband.

And when a good husband goes off the reservation, you'll notice he wants color—sunshine and a red dress and fire water and lip rouge, and hang the cost. And it's this "hang the cost" that invites disaster. Husbands get so tired of hearing about costs that they want that feeling known as "blowing the works."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DID you ever do a mean thing in your life that you did not regret for a long time afterward?

Sometimes you felt justified, perhaps.

But when you could think of it calmly you were ashamed of yourself.

And somehow the thoughts of the despicable things you have done have a way of coming back to you at the most unexpected times.

You wish you could free yourself from them.

And yet they stick—and they will continue to stick, you will find.

In most instances you wanted to repay a wrong, did you not?

In each and every case you wanted to return, in greater severity, what you had received. Isn't that true?

Right now you may be contemplating a "get even" job against some person for an alleged or imaginary wrong.

Even if you hurt the one toward whom you feel antagonistic would you gain anything by it?

No. The early sweetness some lay at the door of revenge does not outweigh the regrets that come after.

And there is always a period in life when there are such regrets.
